COX GIVES ALL DAY TO SPEECH

With Engagement List Blank, Democratic Nominee Makes Most of Opportunity

Installments Sent to Printer With Arrangements for Strict Secrecy

DAYTON, Ohio, July 28.—An all day stretch dictating to his secretary his address for August 7, accepting the democratic presidential nomination, was the exclusive but formidable affair today before Governor Cox. It was the first day since his nomination that his engagement list was blank and he planned to make the most of the opportunity to work uninterruptedly on the acceptance speech.

Installments of the address were to begin going to the governor's print shop today, with arrangements for strict secrecy. The governor has stated that he desires to have his address "live copy" in its news features as delivered August 7, without being discounted by advance statements.

With the party platform silent on prohibition, friends of the governor here who have been associated with him for years, express the belief that he will not mention it in the speech of acceptance, but that, with what they say is characteristic fearlessness, he will have no hesitation in discussing the subject in his campaign speeches.

Because of his newspaper training, the governor was reported today to be making fast work of his address. But he is exercising great care, as indicated by composition of a few of the main subjects in pencil. The length of the address was today said to be still problematical.

Gov. Cox yesterday held a lengthy conference with Sen. Pomerene of Ohio. The League of Nations issue, as well as the decision to demand that a thorough investigation be conducted by the senate sub-committee, of which Mr. Pomerene is a member, into contributions to the campaign funds of both great parties, were the chief topics which Gov. Cox and the senator took up.

MARION, Ohio, July 28.—Preliminary work on his first front porch speech, to be delivered Saturday to a delegation from Mansfield, Ohio, was begun today by Senator Harding. He indicated that he would make only a short address, and he did not interrupt his schedule of callers during its preparation.

LAWRENCE, July 28.—Bragio Rapisardi, a local mill operative, was shot and killed here early today by Arthur H. Cyscough, a special policeman employed by the Boston & Maine railroad. The man opened fire when the officer found him attempting to steal from a freight car. Cyscough was wounded twice in the leg.

NEW HIGH SCHOOL Program for Laying of Corner Stone Tomorrow

Very simple exercises will surround the laying of the corner stone of the new high school building in Kirk street tomorrow afternoon at 4.30, according to present plans of the high school building commission.

At a conference between Mayor Perry D. Thompson and Dr. John H. Lambert, chairman of the building commission, at city hall this morning, the program was outlined. A copper box, containing the names of the members of the municipal council, the school board, the architect, and the building commission, the various legislative acts which led up to the creation of the commission and other papers connected with the erection of the structure, will be imbedded in one of the granite blocks in the corner of the new building nearest the old high school building in Kirk street.

A temporary platform has been erected for the speakers. The mayor suggested today that along with the other names which are to be put in the copper box, those of the original high school commission be added, as he believed the original body played an important part in the preliminary work connected with getting the project started. Whether this suggestion will be favorably acted upon is not known. Chairman Lambert will preside at tomorrow's exercises and only a few speakers will be called upon.

MAY SELL FIRE HOUSE AT AUCTION

The latest suggestion put forward for the disposal of the Westford street fire house which has been vacated by the fire department but which still remains the property of the city, is to sell it at public auction and use the receipts in the purchase of a bungalow type of firehouse to be erected in another section of the Highlands.

Commissioner George E. Marchand is said to be one of the proponents of the idea. It is known that a prominent local ice cream manufacturing concern has considered purchasing the building, if it is put on sale, with the purpose in view of remodeling it so that one-half can be used as a confectionery store and soda shop and the other half for the conduct of a wholesale ice cream business.

At the present time the property is standing idle and the city, of course, is receiving no taxes from it.

Decision Reached by Lloyd George and Millerand on Conference With Soviets

Anti-Bolshevik Papers Declare Lloyd George Has Surrendered—Paris Pleased

LONDON, July 28.—The decision reached by Premier Millerand and Lloyd George at the Boulogne conference, yesterday—to stand by the original plan for a peace conference with Russian soviets and that the London conference which the soviet demanded could not take place unless the Bolsheviks reversed their present attitude and agreed to discuss at the conference peace with Poland and with all qualified representatives of Russia and the border states in attendance—receives no enthusiastic endorsement by the London press. By the anti-Bolshevik papers it is roundly denounced, one of them saying that it "will bring nearer that diplomatic recognition of the soviet government, which we especially detest and dread."

Premier Lloyd George is sharply criticized, as one of them puts it, "for surrendering to the Bolsheviks and creating by his policy a very serious situation."

The London Times declares the matter "too grave for irrevocable decision behind closed doors" and maintains that it must be submitted to the parliament of the allies. The paper sympathizes with the French view that America must have a voice in the question, implying its belief that America would repudiate an agreement based on Bolshevik conditions.

The Chronicle describes the Boulogne decision as a "judicious middle formula."

Paris Press Gratified

PARIS, July 28.—The Paris press is gratified over the results of the Boulogne conference. Most of the papers unite in considering the outcome a "feather in M. Millerand's cap," pointing out that he persuaded Premier Lloyd George to adopt the French views both on the Russian and coal questions.

"The financial agreement concluded at Spa," says Pertinax, political writer of the Echo de Paris, "remains in blame but there is now a light on the horizon, and if the reparations commission knows how to play the part assigned it, the blunders of a fortnight ago will be reduced to the dimensions of temporary mistakes."

Duck for Resolute Sails Made at Bay State Mills Here

It will interest the people of Lowell to know that the canvas used for the sails of the Resolute, the yacht that defeated the Shamrock IV, was made at the Bay State cotton mill on Marginal street, in this city. Superintendent Woodman stated to a Sun representative today, that the order for sail duck for the Resolute was manufactured with the greatest care that could be given to it, and that it was the best piece of goods of the kind that could be made in the United States. Assistant Superintendent Joseph Wilmott had charge of getting out the order and he spared no pains in seeing that every thread and fibre was perfect. Agent George Dearborn was also much interested in producing this piece of goods, knowing what the serious consequences might be if it was not absolutely perfect.

The officials of the mill, as well as the operatives who worked on the order, were very glad to hear of the victory won by the Resolute, as each one of them seemed to have a personal interest in the contest.

ARMED BRITISH FORCE "INVADES" MEXICO

CALGARY, Alberta, July 28.—General Critchley, well known in Canadian military circles, has recruited and taken into Mexico, three battalions of British and Canadian war veterans, to settle them on a million-acre estate, according to news received here today. These settlers, it was stated, are organized on a thorough military basis, including four fully equipped air squadrons.

General Critchley and his brother, Major H. C. Critchley, both of Calgary, are in command of the expedition, the expenses of which are being provided for by the British government with an appropriation of £300,000.

COAL SHIPMENTS START MONDAY

Orders Issued by Interstate Commerce Commission to Relieve Shortage

Priority Orders Will Move Coal to N. E. at Rate of 1,250,000 Tons a Month

WASHINGTON, July 28.—Adequate orders have been issued, members of the interstate commerce commission believe, to relieve the coal shortage in New England. Beginning next Monday, under priority orders promulgated yesterday by the commission, coal will be moved through five Atlantic ports to New England consignees at the rate of 1,250,000 tons a month. Coal dealers were agreed that if shipments were maintained at this level a fuel famine would be averted.

J. W. Howe of New York, today began to arrange for the assignment of cars to mines for shipments that will pass through the ports of New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore. E. M. Graham of Newport News will act in a similar capacity for the ports of Norfolk and Newport News. Coal for

CANAL SWIMMING AREA RESTRICTED

There will be no more swimming or bathing in that portion of the Northern canal which is directly in the rear of the C.M.A.C. clubhouse in Merrimack street in accordance with instructions given today to Supt. Redmond Welsh of the police department by Mayor Perry D. Thompson.

Following a conference with Arthur T. Safford, chief engineer of the Locks & Canals, the mayor decided to prevent further fatalities in the canal, which is particularly dangerous at the point mentioned, by issuing a general order prohibiting swimming and bathing there. Patrolmen in that section of the city will be instructed by Supt. Welsh to keep an eye on the place to see that the new rule is not violated.

ROOT PRESENTS LINCOLN STATUE

Ex-Secretary of State Speaker at Unveiling of Monument in London Today

Event Wildly Heralded as Further Cementing Anglo-American Friendship

LONDON, July 28.—Elhu Root, former American secretary of state, who recently took part in the work of the commission of jurists at the Hague for the establishment of a permanent international court of justice, today formally presented to the British people the Saint Gaudens statue of Lincoln in Canling square, as a gift from America and later the statue was unveiled. Premier Lloyd George abandoned official business to deliver the speech of acceptance.

The presentation was made in the presence of a distinguished audience in the central hall of Westminster with Viscount Bryce, former British ambassador to the United States, presiding. The event was widely heralded in the British press as further cementing Anglo-American friendship.

In the course of his address, Mr. Root declared: "It would be difficult to conceive of a sharper contrast in all the incidental and immaterial things of life than existed between Lincoln and the statesmen whose statues stand in parliament square."

Later in his address, however, Mr. Root said: "It is the identical fundamental conceptions in both countries which make it impossible that in any great world emergency Great Britain and America can be on opposing sides. These conceptions of justice and liberty are the breath of life, for both. While they prevail, both nations will endure; if they perish, both nations will die. These were Lincoln's inheritances."

"We may disregard all life's prejudices and quarrels that result from casual friction and pin-pricks and from outside misrepresentation and defraction, and rest upon Lincoln's unerring judgment of his countryman and his race. We may be assured from him that whenever trials come, whenever there is need for assurance of the inherent power, truth and triumph of justice, humanity and freedom—then the peace and friendship between Great Britain and America will prove as Lincoln desired to make them, perpetual."

Mr. Root recounted in great detail Lincoln's life struggles and his ideals, which he maintained Englishmen understood at the time he commanded public attention. He emphasized this by reading a copy of a sympathetic letter 6000 Manchester cotton operatives, unemployed because of the shortage of cotton during the war between the northern and southern states, sent to Lincoln after promulgation of the emancipation proclamation.

In an endeavor to impress upon his audience the human side of Lincoln, Mr. Root read familiar parts of his second inaugural address and his letter to Mrs. Dix of Boston, when he learned she had lost five sons in battle.

OIL BURNER CROSSES OCEAN IN SIX DAYS

NEW YORK, July 28.—The British steamship Olympic arrived here today from Southampton and Cherbourg, making the passage in the fast time of 6 days, 2 hours and 41 minutes.

EVERY CLOUD HAS SILVERY LINING

Lowell property owners looking eagerly for any development in the local assessors' department that may tend to keep down the 1920 tax rate will be somewhat encouraged by the announcement made today by the assessors that Lowell's share of the first appropriation of the state income tax for this year amounts to $113,777.62, or $57,863.22 more than the first appropriation received last year from the same source.

This means that the city will receive $113,777.62 from the state and that just so much less will have to be raised by taxation. Last year the first appropriation amounted to $55,914.40.

Several appropriations or "dividends" are made each year in accordance with a state law which became effective in 1917, but only the first appropriation is received in time to have any bearing on the current tax rate.

Business men all over the world will have a chance to learn that Lowell is on the map and also acquire some information about it. It plans that have been formulated at the chamber of commerce are carried out.

Secretary George F. Wells has prepared a folder, 3 1/4 by 6 inches in size, with six pages that it is proposed to have distributed in large quantities free of cost to business men of the city to be used for slipping into the envelopes with the letters that they send out. Occupying two pages of the folder will be a map of southern New England and part of the northern states of Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont. Lowell will be shown in its strategic position as a business and trading city, and the principal roads.

FINAL ARGUMENTS IN PETTIBONE TRIAL

MANCHESTER, Vt., July 28.—Final arguments were made today, in the trial of Byron K. Pettibone for the murder of his wife at Bennington, on April 6. It was expected that the case would go to the jury before night.

Attorney James K. Rathbender made the closing plea for the defendant, and Attorney General Frank O. Arnold presented the final argument for the state in an attempt to prove that Pettibone, who was an undertaker's assistant, poisoned his wife because of his alleged affection for Miss Helen I. Gullow, a nurse. The defense maintains that Mrs. Pettibone was the victim of a self-administered dose of strychnine.

1920 TAX RATE

Extra Clerical Work Will Not Delay Announcement

While the wholly unprecedented number of real estate transfers in Lowell, since the beginning of the year, has caused some delay in clerical work in the assessors' department at city hall and has necessitated the employment of several more clerks than usual on this one branch of the department's activity, nevertheless, it will result in no delay in the announcement of the 1920 tax rate, the assessors say.

There naturally follows, from every real estate transfer within the city's limits, investigation by the assessors by clerks who do nothing else. However, with the additional help secured, it is believed that the tax rate will be ready to be announced toward the latter part of August.

"DEAD OR ALIVE" IS RAT BATTLE SLOGAN

BY GEORGE B. WATERS,
N.E.A. Staff Correspondent.
NEW ORLEANS, July 28.—The bubonic plague has brought on a slogan of "dead or alive" for all rats, and Gulf port cities have entered, with a spirit, in the battle to exterminate the disease-carrying pests.

In New Orleans alone 270,500 rats have been trapped in the past eight months, and it is estimated that there are still 1,000,000 in the city.

Dr. M. S. Lombard, surgeon of the United States Public Health Service, in charge of the rat-extermination campaign in Louisiana, has started a school to train rat-catchers, in the hope that they would be trapped and killed faster than they breed.

In the Parish of Orleans there are now 230 men who do nothing but catch rats, dead or alive, and they have worked their way into the rattiest quarters of the port.

With a price placed on the pests' heads—25 cents for a live rat and 10 cents for a dead one—the new occupation has already brought forth the man who claims to be the champion rat hunter of the world. He is Joe Boulet, and, as a reward for valiant service, has been sent to Beaumont to aid in ridding that section of rats. Boulet made $178 in bounties in June for the high record. Besides this he received $50 in salary from the government.

As fast as the pests are brought in a corps of bacteriologists examines them for bubonic plague infection. Of the 270,500 trapped so far, 543 were infected.

The bubonic plague broke out in New Orleans in 1912 and in 1914, but was not as serious as it appears this time. Certain interests have sought to minimize the danger, but Dr. Lombard and State Health Officer Dowling are taking it seriously.

"We hope to stamp out the plague in time," says Dr. Lombard, "but it is going to cost a great deal of money, an drinkable considerable time. The millions of rats in all ports will have to be killed and their breeding places destroyed."

Thousands of buildings have had to undergo what is known as rat proofing and New Orleans is to be thoroughly cleaned, with the garbage problem properly solved, in order that the rodents will not return after they are once routed.

PASTOR AND WIFE HOLD RECEPTION

Standing surrounded by flowers and greenery in the vestry annex of the Worthen Street Baptist church, Rev. and Mrs. Walter E. Woodbury last evening gave a reception to the members of the church and congregation and other friends previous to their departure for Minneapolis next week.

In an adjoining room, the Pawtucketville orchestra furnished music as the long line of friends filed past the receiving couple. The ushers were Arthur Wilson, Arthur Johnson, Arthur Woodbury, Wallace McQuesten and Vera Clark.

During the evening Mr. Woodbury was presented with a leather traveling bag as a gift from his parishioners. Mr. Woodbury was given a bar pin and a handbag.

The general arrangements for the reception were in charge of Mrs. Geo. Drack, president of the Ladies' Social circle. The church was decorated by members of the Christian endeavor society under the direction of President Wallace McQuesten.

Mr. Woodbury is to deliver his last address in this city at the church meeting Friday night.

He said: "I suffered from rheumatism for five years; at times could scarcely walk. My left hand was helpless for six or eight weeks; the left shoulder badly involved, and running up into the head. I used to go up and down stairs on my hands and knees. My stomach, too, was in very bad shape, and I felt if I did not get relief I would have to give up business. I took many remedies, but received no benefit. When I began taking Var-ne-sis I was in constant pain, but after a short time I began to feel relieved. WHAT more wonderful thing in the world is there than the love of the lover for some girl's glorious hair that has had him in its thrall.

What more pitiful thing is there than the girl with poor, thin, stringy hair, who laments above all things for that worship that has never been hers.

Therefore, what greater news could there be than the news which now comes from one of the largest and oldest and most reliable pharmaceutical houses in America that the cause for practically all hair troubles has at last been found and the remedy discovered.

No less a concern than F. A. Thompson & Company, who have manufactured medicines for over physicians and druggists for over quarter of a century, have discovered the remedy that will not only destroy dandruff, but also the very hair causes dandruff and itching scalp and falling hair; and that this remedy is also a wonderful food for hair in producing a new and remarkably luxuriant growth and a beautiful, glossy appearance.

They have conducted tests now for a period of over four years on thousands of heads and they guarantee that this remedy, which contains no alcohol or chemicals and therefore can be used daily, will produce results that you can see within a matter of days.

They not only guarantee this, but they allow you to return the empty bottle to your druggist and get your money back in case you yourself are not satisfied with the results produced.

They have given this remarkable discovery a trade name easy to remember and have called it F.A.M.O. F.A.M.O. comes in 35c and $1 sizes. The large $1 size they guarantee will effect such results as to be a revelation to you. You will hardly know your own head. There is also a trial size for 35c.

You can get F.A.M.O. in this city from any toilet goods dealer under the full guarantee mentioned above. And certainly such a statement from such a concern with so complete a guarantee is worthy of a trial by any man who wants good healthy hair, or any woman who wants a luxuriant mass of it.

Large stock of F.A.M.O. is carried by dealers. If your dealer in your town cannot supply you, send 10c for a sample bottle together with their free, authoritative folder on the treatment of the hair and scalp.

ACCUSED OF GAMBLINGDisorder Again Breaks Out in Japanese House of Representatives—Fists Fly

TOKIO, July 28.—Disorder which characterized yesterday's session of the house of representatives was repeated today when the allegations that Baron Takahashi, minister of finance, and other ministers had improperly used their offices by indulging in stock gambling were again discussed. Several members of the opposition rushed to the rostrum, followed by government members and fist-fighting was started. Guards were obliged to interfere.

Today's trouble started when a spokesman for the government party rose to approve the decision to send M. Shimada, who made the charges against the ministers, before a disciplinary committee and offered a motion to this effect, saying his idea was to secure Shimada's expulsion from the house.

Replying to this Shimada, who is a famous orator declared his charges were made in the hope of "clarifying the contaminated atmosphere of officialdom" and that the denials of the ministers failed to satisfy him. Ito Ozaki former minister, suddenly participated in the discussion, saying it was impossible to be content with the replies of the cabinet ministers.

The house adopted the anti-Shimada motion, 261 to 157.

Outside the diet building at the same time, an excited mass meeting against the cabinet was in progress. A thousand policemen were present and a number of arrests were made.

GIRL INSULTEDYoung Man Gets House of Correction Sentence

Joseph Mello, charged with using indecent and improper language to a person of the opposite sex, was found guilty in police court today and was sentenced to four months in the house of correction. Mello appealed the decision through his counsel and was held in $300 for superior court.

The incident connected with the affair is alleged to have occurred in the vicinity of a pool room in Lincoln square on the evening of July 15. Mello was one of a group of about 20 young men who were about the pool room at the time and the one, according to the complainant, a little girl 16 years old, who first started to insult her as she passed by on her way to a nearby store. When Mello started the talk, the others, it is alleged, also addressed her indecently. The girl said that she had complained to the police about the matter before and that she and her mother had been warned Mello. Both sides were represented by counsel and when giving his decision Judge Enright rendered a severe condemnation of the acts of the defendant and his associates.

COAL SHORTAGE CLOSES PLANT

GARY, Ind., July 28.—As a result of the fuel shortage, 5000 men here are idle, it was reported today. The American Sheet and Tin mill, one of the largest of its kind, was out of commission. The big Bessemer in the Gary works, were operating only intermittently, the plant being seriously crippled. Twelve of the great blast furnaces were cold.

It was announced that, in order to continue partial operation, the Gary works will hereafter use oil as fuel in many departments.

GET-RICH-QUICK PLAN OF PONZI'S DISCLOSED

BOSTON, July 28.—Charles Ponzi, who in a few hours leaped from what amounted almost to obscurity into the centre of the limelight because of his "50-percent-in-90-days investment scheme," yesterday paid out several hundred thousand dollars to investors in his scheme, and in a statement issued last night declared that the payments will be continued today and every day on the same basis until all claims have been presented.

In a statement to U. S. Atty. Gallagher, Ponzi said he had let the public in on his scheme and part of its large profits because eventually he thought he would need their help in larger undertakings. Mr. Gallagher made public what he said was a summary of Ponzi's interview with him, including an outline of the method which he says has brought him profits amounting to 400 per cent. in some cases. The statement by the United States attorney follows:

"First the conversion of American money into depreciated foreign currency, no matter what it is; or the conversion of foreign money not depreciated into foreign money that is depreciated. I do not actually send money abroad, but I use funds I have abroad between one country or the other. That is the first part of the transaction.

"The second part is the purchasing of the depreciated currency in international reply coupons. The third part is the redemption of these coupons in countries in which the currency is not depreciated, and the conversion, of course, into postage stamps, and the fifth is either the conversion of the money that I derive from the sale of the stamps into American money, or the conversion of such money into foreign money which I thus have at my disposal to repeat the operation."

"Mr. Ponzi said that he had in the United States upwards of $5,000,000 and between $5,000,000 and $9,000,000 in depositories abroad. He was asked why it was that, having eight or nine million dollars in American money, he should need to pay agents a commission for soliciting people to invest. He said that he did not need the money but that he would eventually need the people."

"When asked for what purpose he would need the people, he said he did not know; that it was possible that he might run for office."

WASHINGTON, July 28.—Census bureau announces the population of Westerly, R. I., as 2552, increase 1256 or 11.4 per cent.

SUSPENDS SECTION OF MERCHANT MARINE ACT

WASHINGTON, July 28.—The interstate commerce commission today suspended until Jan. 1, 1921, the section of the merchant marine act which permits railroads to give preferential rates to exports moving in American vessels.

Chairman Benson of the shipping board last week certified to the commission that adequate shipping facilities in vessels registered under the American flag were not available for the movement of American commerce. He stated that suspension of the discriminatory features of the Jones bill were asked pending an investigation of shipping facilities in American ports.

leading into it will be clearly defined. Plans for issuing the folder will be considered by the Community Advertising committee, of which Harold L. Chaffoux is chairman, at a meeting to be held at the Colonial next Friday at noon. It is the practice of the members of this committee to meet at noon and partake of luncheon previous to considering business matters.

It is expected that at the committee meeting a report will be made by Daniel Miller, the contractor who has charge of the placing of signs advertising Lowell alongside of roads leading to the city. It is understood that the work of placing the 100 additional signs, recently ordered by the chamber, is nearing completion.

The "Made in Lowell" label campaign, originated by the chamber, is still going on. A number of manufacturers have announced their willingness to make use of the label, and it is expected that in the near future still other concerns will fall in line.

It is doubtful if the chamber, as an organization, takes any part in the hearings on changes in the city charter that are to begin before the commission recently appointed by Mayor Thompson soon after Labor day. Two members of the chamber's board of directors are on the commission.

Twenty-five thousand more of the slips warning against get-rich-quick investment schemes, issued by the chamber, were distributed to the local mills yesterday for inclusion in their weekly pay envelopes. Yesterday's batch was the second lot of the slips to be placed in circulation. Two other batches are to be sent out during the coming two weeks.

A considerable number of inquiries are being made at the chamber's rooms regarding investment schemes of various kinds. Most of these are believed to be the fruit of the pay-envelope warnings.

No information is available at the chamber rooms regarding the extent of the operations of salesmen for the securities of Ponzi, the Boston postal stamp certificate operator, whose books are now being audited after a conference with the Suffolk county district attorney. It is generally believed that the operations of Mr. Ponzi and associates in Lowell were on a smaller scale than in some other cities. It was claimed he had an agent here, a man who has been actively engaged in politics, but the gentleman in question says he is not in any way connected with Mr. Ponzi's enterprise.

Traffic Manager W. P. Whitcomb of the chamber of commerce is developing into a sort of "blow-dispeller" for all who have transportation troubles. Not only are manufacturers and sportsmen.

merchants turning to him to straighten out all kinds of tangles regarding the securing of freight space for the shipment of goods, and for information regarding routes and rates, but he has lately added the duties of claim adjuster to his other occupations. Recently, after a Lowell business man had negotiated in vain for the settlement of a claim against the Boston and Maine with the local officials of the road, Mr. Whitcomb took the matter up with the company officials in Boston and this morning he received a check for the full amount of the claim.

LIPTON SAYS THE BEST BOAT WON

ABOARD STEAM YACHT VICTORIA, July 28 184 by wireless to the Associated Press—"I am very sorry, but the best boat won," was Sir Thomas Lipton's remarks as Resolute crossed the line a victor yesterday and defeated the Irish baronet's fourth attempt to capture the trophy.

"We all did our best—skipper, designer and crew—and we have been beaten fair and square," said Sir Thomas.

"I have been treated throughout with the greatest fairness and sportsmanship by Americans and I am taking home the very best memory of this contest."

"I shall wait till next year to give some one else a chance to challenge and then I shall rechallenge myself." "I have no excuse to offer; Resolute is the best boat," added the Irish sportsman.

FINEST RUBIES FOUND IN UPPER BURMA

The finest specimen of the ruby came from mines in Upper Burma. According to authorities, these mines were worked as early as the fifteenth century.

In 1880, it is said, a Burmese fruit dealer came into the settlement of Magak. In payment for his fruit, he was given a red stone. Its color and beauty pleased him so much, that he negotiated with great business foresight for the tract of land where it had been found. He secured it in 1887.

In this section of Burma, the greatest ruby mines are now located.

EVERY FLOWER HAS A STORY OF ITS OWN

The peony signifies bashfulness in the language of the flowers. In China it is called man-lan-fa.

Was Sacred Flower

To the Greeks, the peony, was a sacred flower. They believed that it came from the moon and was under special protection from that planet. It was believed that its healing powers were unfailing. The root, boiled in wine, was a cure for diseases of the stomach. In the sixteenth century, children wore beads made from roots of the plant to prevent convulsion. Fifteen seeds, eaten before retiring, would prevent nightmares, it was said. Ancient writers claim that an extract from the peony cured insanity and falling sickness. It was also believed that great care should be exercised in digging up the roots of the plant after dark because Pegasus, the woodpecker of Mars, would attack the eyes of anyone who tried to disturb the plant.

Paeonia Was Nymph

According to the Greeks, Paeonia was a beautiful nymph. One day, when Apollo was making love to her, Paeonia happened to turn around and saw Venus regarding her angrily.

The nymph blushed so red that the color never left her face. When Venus for punishment changed her into a flower, she still retained the rosy hue.

FUNDAMENTAL VALUE OF RECREATION

The fundamental value of recreation, says the United States health service, is the development of men and women who are able to take their places in society and fulfill the requirements which society demands of them. It gives increasing physical strength, stronger moral character, a larger variety of interests and accomplishments and greater industrial efficiency. Games teach the subordination of the individual to the common good and develop the spirit of co-operation. Learning to keep the rules of the game trains the citizens in obeying laws.

Recreation fits men and women to become more useful and loyal citizens by developing a more all-round individual. More important than this is the fact that recreation fits people for a larger degree of democracy. We used to talk about doing things for others, but the present idea is doing things with others. The great significance of the value of recreation is that it teaches people to play together and thus to live together harmoniously and effectively.

The most striking characteristic of the present time is that people are doing more things together. We are coming together for municipal movements, national purposes, labor unions and in associations of employers and employees. Recreation is an agency which has the qualities to prepare these people who are not yet ready for it, to take their part in the great rally which is already developing in the country. Farmers who have always glorified in their independence can be made to understand the value of cooperation effort, through recreation. Foreign-born citizens can most easily be made to feel that they belong to a community by taking some part in a community recreation program.

Democracy will be assured when we have successful recreation systems in our communities, for when people talk together, sing together and play together, the ideals of brotherhood are being realized.

MAHAN HEARINGCONTINUED AGAIN

Following a session which lasted three hours in the aldermanic chamber at city hall yesterday afternoon, the hearing before Mayor Thompson on complaints against Patrolman John W. Mahan of the local police department of conduct unbecoming an officer, brought by Fred M. Stuart and Clifford Carpenter of Graniteville, was adjourned, to be resumed next Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

held so far in the hearing. Nine witnesses for the prosecution were heard and two for the defense. The witnesses for the prosecution told much the same story in general: That Mahan in company with several officers of the Westford police department had come upon a gathering of young men at Mill's corner in Graniteville on Sunday, June 13, had pulled guns on the assumption that a crap game was in progress and that Officer Mahan had demanded that each of the 11 young men present put $5 in his hat which was placed on the ground. They did so, according to witnesses. They admitted that also had been thrown on the ground. The witnesses who were examined for the prosecution were Fred M. Stuart, Albert W. Reeves, Wilfrid D. Duchesneau, Dale Cote, Raymond Wall, Wilfrid Milot, Charles Milot, William Carpenter and David Toulignant. Witnesses heard for the defense were Alonzo A. Sutherland, a special officer of the Westford department, and James A. Sherlock, chief of police of Westford. Sutherland said that some of the young men admitted that they had been shooting crap. He testified that Mahan did not demand any money in his presence. Chief Sherlock testified that he heard of no request for money. He didn't see a crap game in progress. The hearing was adjourned at 5:50 until Tuesday next at 2 p. m.

STILLS SEIZEDOfficers Find Liquor, Too—One Arrest Made

Two stills, eight barrels of mash and a quantity of "moonshine" were seized last night by Federal Officers

Powers and Kelly, assisted by Supt. Welch and Inspector Clark of the local department in an empty tenement in Perkins street, this city. The police allege that the tenement was occasionally occupied by two men who jumped from a window in the house last night and escaped when the officers approached. The stills and other property were taken to the police station.

Arrest Made

The same raiding squad visited a saloon in Thorndike street and arrested William Brennan on charges of violation of the Volstead act. A quantity of liquor was seized at this place also, the officers claiming that they had visited this saloon before, but were unable to get evidence of liquor. Alleging that in former raids the liquor had been thrown out a rear window when the officers entered. Officer Clark stationed himself at that window last night. As the other officers entered the building some empty measures and a gallon of "moonshine" were thrown out and were secured by Clark.

INVITING ENMITIES

Congress, it seems, has laid the foundation for future international wrangling by the provision of the merchant marine law which will call for the abrogation of treaties with twenty nations.

These international compacts provide that neither nation will discriminate against the ships of the other. All these treaties must be terminated when the new merchant marine law takes effect for the reason that it provides that all imports to this country not carried in American ships will be subject to a tariff of 10 per cent.

Although it is desirable to boost our new merchant marine, it is doubtful if this policy will prove successful. Our ships can't carry all our imports and to raise a financial barrier against imports carried by the ships of other nations will doubtless lead to retaliatory action so that England, France, Italy and Japan, respectively, might put a tariff of 10 per cent or more on all their imports not carried in their own ships. Already Japan has taken counter action. That arrangement is a double edged sword, worse by far than the original arrangement to discriminate against foreign ships entering the Panama canal—a policy that had to be abandoned. We do not believe the government will find it expedient to put this new rule in practice.

This is one of the measures which the republicans of congress passed in a hurry before adjournment. This provision to put on a discriminating tariff against the carrying of imports by foreign vessels, is one of the most unwise that can be imagined. It is one of the measures to which the republicans pointed with pride when reviewing their record in congress and assailing the record of the democratic party. Already there are rumblings of national hatred from abroad. American ships find it hard to get coal, and experience many other vexations delays.

It seems that while all the foreign nations are ready to meet friendly rivalry in a good natured way, they all resent this step and are likely to form a combination against us if this fatuous policy be persisted in. The treaties binding us against discrimination have not yet been annulled and it will be good policy to annul the new law rather than the treaties, the severance of which may ultimately lead to war.

WHERE THE MONEY GOES

Mr. W. Jett Lane, consulting economist for the United Mine Workers of America, has made public a statement allocating the costs of producing and selling anthracite coal that retail for $14.50 a ton in Boston. According to his figures the miners get $2.71 of the retail selling price. To this is arbitrarily added $1.19 for supplies and general expenses. No intimation is given in the statement as to what the terms "supplies" and "general expenses" may cover. To a total cost of $3.90 F. O. B. at the mines is added 65 cents for "operators' margin." If we assume that "general expenses" covers overhead charges and costs of operation, other than those grouped under the head of wages, we may assume that 65 cents represents the net profit to the mine owners.

Next we have a charge of $3.29 that is described as "margin of sales agent." To this is added $3.20 a ton for freight charges to Boston, and $3.46 a ton as the retailer's margin.

The cost of anthracite coal on board the cars at the mines has increased from $2.24 to $3.00 a ton, or a total of $1.60, in six years. Freight rates, in the same time, have increased 55 cents from $2.65 to $3.20 a ton. Here we have a total increase in the actual cost of mining the coal, putting it on the cars and hauling it to Boston of $2.21 a ton. In the same six years the cost of anthracite coal to the consumer has increased from $7.75 to $14.50, or $6.75 a ton.

The item in the account that seems to stand out as possibly being the best worth investigating is the sales agent's margin that has increased from $1.19 to $3.29 a ton. What part the sales agent plays in the distribution of coal the statement of the Mine Workers' economist does not state. It would seem a reasonable inference, however, that if his duties pertain solely to selling coal, particularly at this time when buyers are tarrying over one another in their eagerness to buy, the margin that goes into his pocket is somewhat disproportionate to the services he may render. If the retail dealer can pay the costs of unloading the coal, storing it and delivering it, in addition to the expense of keeping up a plant for the carrying on of his business and the reaping of a reasonable profit on capital, invested out of a margin of $3.46 a ton, the sales agent, who apparently is only subjected to the expense of transferring the coal on paper and paying for the maintenance of an office, should be satisfied with something less than a margin of $3.29.

Perhaps a fact that should be borne in mind is that it costs $11.04 to mine and transport to Boston a ton of coal for which the consumer pays $14.50. Whether there is here any evidence of unreasonable profit is a question on which opinions may differ, but apparently the retail dealers are getting the worst end of the reckoning. Moreover coal is now selling for $17.50 and upwards instead of $14.50.

BOLSHEVIKI PLANS

Nicholai Lenine, the soviet premier, recently addressing the third Internationale, socialist, declared that the world's economic crisis and the failure of the League of Nations to reconcile and unite the interests of the "capitalistic" governments have given a great impetus to the movement to consolidate and organize world revolution. He emphasized the statement that the payment of the vast war debts is impossible without involving the countries in economic ruin. In this respect he quoted British authorities in favor of cancelling all war debts as a necessary step toward the re-establishment of international credit. He pointed to the non-capitalistic countries of Asia as fertile fields for the spread of soviet doctrines. It appears from these various statements that Lenine and Trotsky are closely watching the happenings elsewhere in the world, for anything that can be used to strengthen their position against anything in the line of capital and to promote their false ideas of government and the rights of property. Should the soviet government of Russia be recognized in the near future by the allied powers, she will be in a position to keep the world in a state of uncertainty as to future wars.

The Soviet has taken or is about to take the place of Germany in the ambition to dominate the world. She is not as yet doing it by force; but she will reach that stage later unless her aims are frustrated. She will at least continue to spread her propaganda as heretofore but probably with more persistence so that greater vigilance will be necessary. The menace of the Bolsheviki is not laid by a long shot, and if Russia and Germany form an alliance, there will be a very near approach to the balance of power as it existed before the war. Russia has ambitions to reach the sea on the south and to defeat the purpose of any combination of nations in assuming the role of masters of the world.

OUR OVERSEAS DEAD

Undoubtedly everybody will be ready to render every aid possible to the commission appointed by Governor Coolidge "to ascertain the most appropriate methods of caring for the graves of Massachusetts dead in foreign countries."

This commission will first try to obtain the name of the organization to which attached, date of death, place of burial. This information can be furnished in part by the relatives of the deceased soldiers and so far as known they will be communicated with. The various sources of official information on these points will also be availed of so that eventually, the commission should have a very complete record of all the Massachusetts soldiers who died in the war.

SAFER HIGHWAYS

An organization has been started at the state house to make the roads of the state safe for the public. By this is meant, not that the roads are now in bad condition and that they must undergo speedy repairs. Not at all. The increased safety will consist in causing those who use the roads to be more careful, not only of their own lives but the lives of others—in fine to lessen the risk of accident to everybody who uses the public highways. It is a most necessary movement considering the great number of accidents resulting from careless or even reckless driving of motor vehicles.

SOUTH AMERICA

North American customs are reversed in parts of South America. In one district umbrellas are used only to keep off the sun. When the owner of an umbrella is caught out in the rain with it he folds the umbrella up carefully to keep it from getting wet.

Consider the La Paz district of Bolivia! There the more skirts a woman wears the greater her social distinction.

The Argentine once had a frontier life no less picturesque than that of the United States. South America has many varied points of interest. But nothing there is of more interest than the rapid growth recently of its trade with the United States.

For instance, Uruguay. Only three vessels flying the flag of the United States entered the port of Montevideo in 1914. Last year there were 151. Already this year the number is 103.

A new Trans-Andean railway is being considered by the governments of Chile and Argentina. It would connect northern Chile with Buenos Aires, and would reduce by ten days the time of shipment of American goods to interior Argentina by way of the Panama Canal. The cost of this railroad would be $25,000,000.

—N. E. A.

Our Lowell contemporary says, "The whole question is whether you can bring yourself to trust the democrats to go on running the country for four more years, after seeing so many samples of their work." Some of the "samples" that may be seen in this city are overflowing savings banks, higher wages, better dressed and fed people, more prosperous merchants, more general happiness and contentment than have ever been known before.

Candidate Roosevelt, who claims to be a sort of New Englander because his mother's people lived in Fairhaven, says he hopes to deliver a number of speeches in this section if the national committee will permit him to do so. If he gets a chance to come to Lowell for one of his addresses, he will be given a chance to see exactly what a royal New England welcome is like.

It is not impossible that the British government is sowing a choice lot of dragon's teeth in carrying on its flirtations with the soviets, and consenting to the robbing of Poland at the behest of the Bolsheviki who are to have a first mortgage on Polish resources. A Germano-soviet alliance is not a remote possibility of the future.

Already the Filipinos have decided that they will boycott certain American firms in the islands if the provision of the new merchant marine law is enforced in extending to the Philippines the coastwise commercial rules of the United States. The antipodes are rather far removed to be included in our coastwise trade.

The railroad shopmen, who are to vote on the proposition to strike or not to strike, can be sure that they can decide upon but one course of action in which they will receive public support, and that is to vote "No."

The pilferers who have stolen one hundred towels from the municipal bathhouse deserve a place well up toward the top of the list of the meanest thieves. Why not adopt a system that will compel each bather to return his towel before leaving.

One cannot help wondering what the cause may be, and if there is any remedy for it, when 15 children die in a single week in Lowell, as against 18 deaths of persons of all ages during the same week a year ago.

There is an eternal fitness in things when a courtship carried on upon the seat of a hearse brings one of the participants into the prisoner's dock in court to face a charge of murder.

Disregarding all other phases of the matter, it is plain that the closed mills of the American Woolen company are not helping to reduce the price of clothing.

It would not be strange if the Los Angelesians felt as though they were in a cradle with the foot of old mother Nature, in a nervous mood, on one of the rockers.

Advised a Change

The proprietor of the second-hand shop was not so tidy as he might have been. One day while standing in front of the shop a man approached him and said:

"Have you any clean shirts in yer shop?"

"Sure, I have," answered the clothing man, anxious for a sale. "Lots of them, as clean as anything."

"Well," said the man, moving away, "go in and put one of them on."

Miniature Painter

Richard Gibson, who died on July 23, 1890, just 230 years ago last Friday, was 3 feet and 6 inches tall and his wife was a bit shorter than he. Still, they had nine children, all of whom attained ordinary stature. It must have been embarrassing to Papa Gibson to have his 6-year-old son carrying him and Mother Gibson about the nursery, one under each arm. We suppose he had to hire a policeman as a nurse to keep order in the nursery. Gibson lived to be 75 and his wife died at 89. Quite appropriately, Gibson was a miniature painter—a famous one, at that.

Monitor Lizard

A very interesting creature, says a writer in the Century magazine, is the giant lizard of Africa, sometimes called the monitor lizard, which grows to a length of more than five feet. Its appearance is that of a slenderly built crocodile, and it is very active, especially in the use of its powerful tail, which it uses as a weapon. With one snap of his tail it will instantly kill a full-grown chicken, and it occasionally strikes a human being. This reptile is an inveterate chicken thief, and has a method of waylaying fowls in the woods and grass, where they always manage to get a little more than their share. With such hon vivant habits, the flesh of this lizard is naturally very good eating, and I myself have partaken of it.

Don't Rub It In

Never forget a kindness done to you, and never remember a kindness done by you, says Dr. James I. Vance. There are people, he continues, who do you a kindness, and they never let you forget it. They are not the people you love to meet on the street. One of the surest ways of making a man your enemy is to do him a kindness, and then rub it in. Never let him forget that you made him. Keep constantly before him the fact that he was lying wounded on the roadside, and you are the good Samaritan who poured in oil and wine. Keep that up for a while, and you will be able to number your patients among your most ardent despisers. This thing of gratitude is something, of course, that should be cultivated and exercised. A man is a scrub who forgets a kindness; but what sort of a man is he who refuses to let you forget it? This thing of rubbing it in on the poor devil you picked up, the kindness shown him may glorify you but it humiliates him. It takes him back to the hour of his defeat. It keeps receding before him his failure. Nobody likes that. It is an unhanding way of advertising your own virtues. It is a raw way of keeping yourself in the limelight. Nobody admires that. This is not meant to discourage the helping hand. God knows we all need it. None but sometimes slip, and occasionally fall. Few but have hours of loneliness and days of discouragement. It is a fine thing to help a lame dog over a stile. Don't stop because the dog falls to limp after you and lick your hand. "Forgetting the things which are behind" it is the way great souls march on.

Politics?

Politics? Ain't nothing in it. Nothing so fur's I can see. I've done a lot for it sometimes. It don't do nothing for me. I've carried torches and hollered, I've fit and bled—almost died. For some pretensions old windbags—Some party's joy and its pride. I've fretted over elections. I've put up my hard-earned kale. Voted for boobies, bums and stick-ups. Some of 'em landed in jail. Promises? By the quadrillion. Some of them long and some terse. Chances they promised came surely. Things not a little bit worse.

Maybe you think I am funny. Not getting hot up at all. Over the brilliant wind-damning. That comes alone in the fall. I am too old to have spasms. Politics? That ain't my game. No matter much who's elected. I got to work, just the same.

MATRIMONIAL

Mr. Alexander Proulx and Miss Alda Dion were united in matrimony at St. Joseph's church this morning, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Armand Baron, O.M.I. The bride wore white georgette crepe and a veil caught up with roses and lilies-of-the-valley. She carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses and lilies-of-the-valley. She was given away by her father, Mr. Adolphe Dion. Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride, 11 Farragut street. There were guests present from New Bedford, Keene, N. H., and Canada. Later in the day the happy couple left for a wedding trip to New York and Atlantic City and upon their return will make their home in Worcester.

UNCLE SAM LOOKS INTO JAPANESE PROBLEM

The complaints of Pacific coast farmers that Japanese immigrants are filling up fertile valleys and menacing the white race in California, Oregon and Washington were delved into by a congressional committee sitting in Sacramento and San Francisco, Cal. Governors, congressmen, senators, farmers and experts gave testimony, which may result in international exchanges between the United States and Japan and possibly a modification of immigration laws. Left of right are, Congressmen Albert Johnson of Washington, chairman; John C. Kleezka, of Wisconsin; J. Will Taylor of Kentucky; William N. Vaile of Colorado, and John E. Raker of California. Standing in the rear are George L. Harrington, stenographer and P. F. Snyder, clerk of the committee.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

Just because undertakers usually bury dead people the incident of an undertaker of this city recently rescuing a cat which was drowning in a canal has a particularly weird touch of humor. The undertaker mentioned was passing near a canal when he saw a cat struggling in the water and fast being washed beneath the surface. While a few others saw the feline without making any attempt to rescue it, the undertaker made a rush for a nearby bridge. Seizing a rope which was there at the time he let himself over the railing and down along one of the pliers. He was just down at this place in time to grab the drowning cat as it was about to be washed under the bridge. Spectators of the incident mentioned it as humorous because of the fact that undertakers are supposed to be more interested in the dead than the living. If this man did so much to rescue a cat, it may easily be imagined to what heroic limits he would go to save a human life even at the risk of injuring his own business.

Incidental to the closing of the jail in Thorndike street and the probability of its disposal by the county within a comparatively short time, comes reminiscences on the part of several lifelong residents of the city who have rich stores of historical facts relative to Lowell's earlier days. One gentleman tells me that the spot on which the jail stands was once the home of Hezekiah Thorndike, for whom the street was named. His farm took in much of the land in that immediate vicinity, including part of what now is the South common. The old Thorndike house was torn down when the jail was built. Hezekiah Thorndike married Abigail Chamberlain in 1779. He died in 1843 and she in '47. He was in his 88th year, while her age was 83. They both are buried in the old cemetery at Chelmsford Centre, near the Baptist church. It is also most interesting to know that Hezekiah Thorndike became a charter member of Penitentiary lodge, A. F. and A. M., in 1807. Lowell at that time being a part of the township of Chelmsford.

It was interesting to note the varying opinions and hopes of people who called this office during the yacht races to learn the doings of the two sloops. Some would receive whatever information was given them with a pleasant "Thank you" and let it go at that. Others, however, more prejudiced and enthusiastic, openly expressed their opinion of what was told them. One feminine voice hollered "Hurrah!" right over the wire when she was told that the Resolute was leading in the fifth race. A minute later a burly male voice wanted to know how the Shamrock was coming out. When told that the American sloop was ahead, he said: "That won't do; I want to see old Tom Lipton take the cup out of here." But he remembered to say "Thank you," to his lack of sporting patriotism was forgiven. It went to show that many people on this side of the water so admired the Englishman's sporting blood that they wanted to see his yacht victorious.

The question which is uppermost in everybody's mind at the present time is what style footwear is going to be worn next fall and winter. I think the shoe manufacturers have answered this question very conclusively at the style show held in Mechanics building last week. Sixteen Lynn manufacturers combined at the show and put across an exhibit which was not only interesting but also exceedingly instructive. A background showing the different Lynn factories, together with a reproduction of the first shoe factory in Lynn was exceedingly effective, and in front of this is a runway on which models appear showing the different styles of boots and shoes made in Lynn. Directly in front of this runway were exhibited shoes on stands so as to bring out the full value in every way possible.

Shoe manufacturers in general have come to the direct conclusion that more boots are going to be worn this fall and winter than ever before. Especially those made up in black, tan and calfskin. That their judgment is exceedingly good is borne out by the fact that buying orders are being placed for these shoes in quantity and there is no question but that with the short skirts, which undoubtedly will be worn by women, that these high shoes will sell big. There are no freak designs in this exhibit, whatever shown has been made with the idea that good, sensible, every-day shoes, built on a last which can be worn with comfort, with military heel, and general stylish appearance will appeal more to women buyers than any other kind of footwear.

retain the attractive lawn and shrubbery in front of the buildings. It is one of the few beauty spots adjoining an industrial plant in Lowell. There is a plot of ground adjoining the building of the New England Telephone & Telegraph company in Appleton street that has been made restful to the eye tired with the endless facade of brick and wooden buildings and the monotonous monotony of paved or tarred streets. Near the centre of a green lawn are two flower beds, in the shape of a star and crescent. If I should drop into a poetical mood, I might say that the flowers were set like gems in a robe of emerald. The robe of emerald is there all right, for the grass is kept well irrigated and closely cropped. But the flowers are a bit straggly. Between the office of the Lowell Gaslight company and the J. C. Ayer laboratory is another attractive spot. The space is not large, but the most has been made of what there is of it. There is an area of green lawn, shrubs, a stone seat, and ivy climbing profusely over the wall of the Gaslight building. It is unfortunate that Lowell has not more green grass and shrubbery around its textile plants. Perhaps the reason is that these establishments were started in a day when the man of business did not think it profitable to mix sentiment and aesthetics with business. The old traditions still remain to a large extent in the mills, though the world has moved considerably since they were started. The surroundings of a railroad are ordinarily about as ugly as it is possible to imagine. The Boston & Albany road, carrying out plans evolved by Frederick Law Olmstead, has shown, however, that even the surroundings of a rail line can be made pleasing to the eye.

Annual Chautauqua Begins
Its Sessions—Large Audiences Expected

Work Progressing Slowly on New St. Andrew's Church
—Other News

BillERICA's annual Chautauqua began its sessions this afternoon in a big tent, with seating accommodations for about 1200 persons, that has been erected on the lawn back of the town hall. The sessions are to be held every week day afternoon
and evening up to and including next Monday, Sunday morning the churches of the town are to join in a union service in the tent.

The sessions have been well advertised by means of the BillERICA Chautauqua Courier, and other printed matter, and large audiences are expected, drawn from BillERICA and surrounding towns.

This is the fourth year that the town has had its Chautauqua. As in previous years the expenses are guaranteed by 50 of the townspeople, who each agree to sell nine season tickets at $2.50 each. In addition it is expected that considerable income will be obtained from the sale of single admission tickets that will cost this year 50 cents for afternoon and 75 cents for evening sessions. The cost of bringing the Chautauqua to the town has increased this year to $1025. In addition to this sum, the committee in charge must provide for the company of other expenses connected with the sessions.

The big tent and the entertainers
who are to take part in today's program arrived this morning from Goffstown, N. H. The next stop of the outfit will be at Danielson, Conn.

St. Andrew's Church
The work on St. Andrew's church is slowly but surely nearing completion. It is hoped that it may be ready for use by the latter part of August or the first of September.
The progress of the work has been greatly hampered by strikes among workmen employed by contractors engaged in the construction of the building or supplying materials.
There has also been considerable delay due to the freight tie-up at the railroads.

Many Perplexities
Some old BillERICites say that the town is having more than its share of troubles this summer. They point to the fact that only a short time ago
the place old place was stirred from center to circumference by an agitation to legalize Sunday baseball, an agitation the echoes of which

still linger in the air and are likely,
it is said, to make themselves heard with renewed vigor at the next town meeting.

Now comes the announcement that
the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway is to discontinue one of the main arteries of travel into and out of the town. The street railway authorities say that the line between BillERICA Centre and Woburn with connections through Medford to Sullivan square in Boston has not paid
for some time, hence no more cars are to be run over it beginning with a date in the near future.

A shutting off the line does not trouble the people of North BillERICA
very much. They have never shown any fondness for visiting Woburn, and for those who wish to travel to Boston by electric there is still the line
open via the Centre and Lexington.

The people of the Centre—or some of them—however, have been accustomed to journey down to the tannery
city to purchase material for their Sunday dinners. This they will not be able to do, of course, after the electric line is closed. Local merchants hope that some of this trade will stay at home, but the general opinion seems to be that a good deal of it will go to Lowell.

It is the people of Pinehurst that are hit hardest by the discontinuance of the line. The people of this section of the town have almost grown tired
of discussing their grievance amongst themselves, but whenever a stranger heaves into sight he is looked upon as a proper subject to listen to a tale of woe.

In winter Pinehurst has a population of about 400. In summer this number is increased to nearly 2000. The BillERICA-Woburn electric in the past have furnished the only transportation facilities for the connection of the place with the rest of the world.
With their disappearance people of the section will have to stay at home, if they do not own autos or horses, or else walk five miles to Woburn or two miles to BillERICA Centre to connect with the trains of the Boston &
Maine railroad. Needless to say the Pinehurstites are in a frame of mind
over the loss of their transportation facilities. There has been much talk of a protest, but there seems to be a general feeling of discouragement over the outcome if one is made.

Want to Register
Some of the women of BillERICA are planning to make a move on the camp
of the registrar of voters. Only three weeks remain in which the future citi-zenesses can get their names on the lists so that they can vote at the presidential election if Tennessee, or some other state shall ratify the Anthony amendment to the constitution
before the first Tuesday following the first Monday of next November. About 200 of the women are now registered and entitled to vote.

Mrs. George A. Stowers, chairman of the women's republican town committee, has the work of organizing her committee well in hand and it is expected that within a few days the names of her associates will be announced. As soon as the committee is complete it is probable that a sys-tematized canvass of the republican women of the town will be made with the object of strengthening their allegiance to the G.O.P. and getting them to register if the books are opened to them.

Another grievance against the registrars is said to be that requests that the women should be permitted to inspect the lists of male voters with the names of the parties to which they have declared allegiance, have been turned down on the ground that such an inspection would be contrary to law.

The registrars are Albert H. Richardson, James J. Campbell, Dennis
Mahoney and Albert S. Bull.

Quiet in the Political Camp Politics in BillERICA are settling in such a calm as would lead a cup race committee to hold the signal "no race" before the yachts got underway for the starting mark. The announcement by Dr. M. A. Buck, who has been the town's representative in the general court for two years, that he is a candidate for the senate has not brought a single hat into the ring locally of candidates for his place. So completely dead is the interest in the subject in democratic ranks that leaders admit that it is likely that they will allow the election to go by default as they have done for two years past. The only aspirant for the position that Dr. Buck no longer covets that has shown his head thus far is Candidate Bennett of Burlington, a republican, who is understood to have had some experience in conducting the affairs of his home town, but is little known in BillERICA.

The New Pump
At the last special town meeting an appropriation was made for the purchase of a new pump that the water commissioners asserted was imperatively needed. According to Clerk
Frank L. Day of the commission it had been expected that bids for furnishing the machine would be ready for examination this week Tuesday.
When Tuesday arrived there were no
bids, therefore the time in which offers can be made was extended for one week. The specifications under which bids must be made call for a vertical triplex pump with a capacity of from 800 to 1000 gallons a minute. The specifications explicitly state that a centrifugal pump will not be accepted.
It is stated that it is doubtful if a pump can be delivered in time to place it in service much before the beginning of next year.

The Community Market
Four weeks ago the local grange started out to put a few cents in the armor of H. C. of L. by setting-up a community market in which the farmers in the vicinity could sell their products direct to the consumers. The market has proved a success both to buyers and sellers. The goods offered have been fresh from the farms and garden and not only have the prices been fair, but every penny obtained from the sales has gone into the pockets of the producers, as no charge has been made by grange members for conducting the market. Cream, cheese, eggs, broilers, fowl, many kinds of vegetables and berries, baskets and home-made soap have been among the articles that have met with a ready sale. No butter has shown up yet, and it is said that considerably more cream could be sold if it were offered. Money is also on the list of articles for which inquiry has been made, but none has turned up for sale.

SCHOOL BOARD
Fails to Elect Successor to Arthur K. Whitcomb

Owing to the absence of Julian H. Keyes, the school committee failed to elect a successor to Arthur K. Whitcomb as master of the Greenhatch school, at its regular monthly meeting last evening. The matter will now go over to the August meeting.

The committee accepted Mr. Whitcomb's resignation, brought about by the age-limit law. Chairman Thomas B. Delaney spoke highly of Mr. Whitcomb's ability in matters pertaining to the public schools and said that the department was losing a most valued servant. Gardner W. Pearson, who attended the Varnum school while Mr. Whitcomb was there, also testified to his high qualities as an educator. The resignation was accepted with a rising vote of thanks.

Miss Mary E. Harrigan, a teacher in the school, also spoke of Mr. Whitcomb's many good qualities.

TROUBLE FOR MR. TINGALING
Mr. Tingaling, the fairy landlord of the Land-of-Deer-Knows-Where, peeped this way and that way, and looked carefully all around to see if anyone were coming, for he was very anxious not to be seen, having failed to sneak off the other way and get back to his little friends, Nancy and Nick, as fast as he could; also get my clothes which Oliver Ortolio is mend-

Ten from Oliver Ortolio's apartment in Maple-Tree Flats with nothing on but Oliver's nightgown which he had borrowed.

"I'll just slip over and ask Munchie Mouse to help me up in his dumb-waiter," thought Tingaling tiptoeing cautiously over the soft moss.

But suddenly he heard voices, and dodging behind a blueberry plant, the fairyman waited to see what would happen.

"Isn't it a delightful day, Mrs. Ant," came a soft lady-like voice too near for our little fair friend to feel quite comfortable.

WAS THROWN FROM HIS MOTORCYCLE

Frans Lundgren, 24, of Medford street, Pinehurst, a part of BillERICA, was thrown from his motorcycle in Cambridge road, Winchester, yesterday afternoon while attempting to avoid a collision with an automobile. He was taken to the Winchester hospital where it was found that he had three broken ribs and was suffering from numerous cuts and bruises. When he recovered consciousness at the hospital he stated that the accident was due to his motorcycle having struck a spot where there was soft sand as he attempted to steer it out of the path of the automobile. Witnesses of the accident say that the occupants of the auto proceeded on their journey without stopping to ascertain what had happened to the motorcyclist.

If the work that women do and the pains they suffer could be measured in figures, what a terrible array they would present! Resolute Wins Final Yacht Race and America's Cup Remains at Home

AMERICA KEEPS CUP

Thirteen was just like any other number for the Resolute. Under the management of Robert W. Emmons and Skipper Charles Francis Adams at the wheel the America's cup is still ours. After a series of 13 challenges covering 69 years of international yacht racing, the Resolute kept up America's winning streak.

NEW YORK, July 25.—The America's cup remains at home.

Sir Thomas Lipton's fourth attempt to lift it ended in failure yesterday. When his challenger, the fourth Shamrock, was defeated decisively by the Resolute, over a 30-mile windward and return course, in the fifth and deciding race of the present series, the 13th in which the cup has been defended.

At the end of 21 years of effort to take back to England this emblem of sailing supremacy, won by the schooner yacht America in 1851, the aged challenger yesterday saw his hopes of victory vanish at the very moment that opportunity seemed to grasp the cherished trophy within his grasp.

During the first two hours of yesterday's race Sir Thomas stood on the tip of his toes, for his boat showed a burst of speed that, if sustained, might have given her the race and the series. It was a tense period of excitement, and it seemed a turning point in the history of the cup.

Lipton's Hopes Blasted
Then swiftly came disillusion. After a hard two hours' contest between the two yachts for the weather, Resolute, by skillful sailing and superior speed, worked out to a lead that spelled doom for the ambition of the Irish knight. Thereafter the American boat was never headed, and when, at twilight, she led the Shamrock home, the defeat of Lipton's fourth challenger was more decisive than that suffered by any race in which both boats finished.

One had to go back in memory 17 years for a scene like that of Sandy Hook at the end of yesterday's race. Then the Resolute had come home a victor, with Shamrock III lost in the fog and unable to find the line. At that time Sir Thomas had looked on ruefully enough as the American boat came home, but he had been spared a view of the discomfort of his challenger.

Last night such was not the case, for the weather was clear, and he could see the long distance on the wake that was represented by the 13 minutes by which Resolute outsailed the green-bellied bearer of his hopes.

The picture as Resolute swept across the finish line was striking and beautiful. The sun, almost on the horizon, shone sharply outlined, a blood red ball on a screen of violet haze. A pale moon, three-quarters full, looked down upon a sea fast turning from blue to gray.

About the old red lightship a fleet of naval craft, yachts and tugs lay waiting.

Planes Buzz Overhead

Overhead soared several airplanes. As the triumphant defender swept home, her headsails full and hard in a rising night breeze, and going at her best speed of the day, a roar of welcome from deep-throated whistles greeted her.

None was quicker with its greeting than the whistle on Sir Thomas Lipton's steam yacht Victoria. On her bridge was the white-haired owner of the defeated boat, the champion loser of all sporting history.

In his hour of defeat he looked his disappointment; but when cheers went up for Resolute, his cap came off and he waved it toward the American boat. Just then a destroyer ranged past the Victoria and her crew gave three cheers "For Tommy Lipton." That seemed to cheer him up. Yet waiting for his boat to finish was a hard quarter hour for him, as anyone could see.

The scene of 17 years ago and of 19 years and of 21 years ago when the three preceding Shamrocks had finished their matches was repeated. In the gathering gloom the fleet raced home, leaving Sir Thomas to escort his defeated yacht back to Sandy Hook.

It was a solemn closing for a day's racing that had begun with hopes so high for the challenger. But it had been a day in which all might turn on luck.

Good fortune had given Sir Thomas the first two races of the series, one through a breakdown of the defending boat, the other through a lucky slant of wind that had put his boat far enough ahead to profit by a rising breeze that brought her home a winner.

Resolute to Be Dismantled

NEW YORK, July 25.—Resolute, which decisively defeated Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock IV, in the deciding yacht race in defense of the America's cup yesterday, probably will not run another race, said H. de B. Parsons, a member of the race committee of the New York Yacht club, today. The defender will be taken to a shipyard at City Island and then proceed to Bristol, R. I., where she will be dismantled at the Herreshoff yards. Part of her fittings will be stored at City Island.

There will be no special celebration of the victory by the New York Yacht club. Yachtmen today highly praised the handling of the Resolute by Charles Francis Adams 2nd in all races of the Shamrock. His handling of the boat was a masterpiece.

AMATEUR BASEBALL

The Pawtucket Stars will play the Liberty A. C. this evening at 8:30 at Emory field. Manager Cole will meet the Liberty A. C. team members at the Moody street bridge at 6 o'clock.

The Manly won a double-header Sunday when they defeated the Dixie, 6 to 3, and the Federals, 5 to 1. Features of the games were the pitching of Golden and McMahon and the sensational fielding and batting of Francis McFite, behind the bat for the Federals, also played a good game.

BILLY MURPHY OF N. Y. U. S. OLYMPIC TEAM HAS FINE RECORD TRAINS ON WAY OVER

As Billy Murphy of Staten Island, N. Y., who is matched to meet Billy Fitzsimmons of Chelsea, in the main event of 12 rounds at Spaulding park Saturday afternoon, is a new comer in this vicinity, a little review of his activities will convince the fans that the New York and New Jersey fans have some grounds for their claim that he is the best looking prospect developed in that vicinity since the days of Terry McGovern.

Murphy is under the management of Eddie Harvey, manager of Jimmy Duffy and several other high class performers. Harvey has been a very successful handler of ring men, and it has been only a few days since he has been in the ring with a record of 10 wins and 10 losses.

Murphy has newspaper decisions over Benny Valger, Jack Sharkey, Billy Aitken, whom Tom O'Rourke brought to this country as a British champion, to "Tipitiz," Sammy Waltz, Bobby Michaels, Charles Hayes, Joe Leonard, Willie Brown and many others. He has been boxing four years and has not had a decision registered against him in 41 months.

He was matched to meet Johnny Kilane at Waterbury, Conn., on June 17, 1920, but labor troubles in that city put a blink on boxing. George Mulholland, who was promoting the match, still has hopes of staging it at a later date.

Joe Lynch turned down three offers to meet Murphy in decision bouts, the offers coming from Waterbury, Hartford and Meriden, Conn.

DEMPSEY AND MISKE TO FIGHT LABOR DAY

CHICAGO, July 25.—Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion of the world, was matched late yesterday to meet Miske of St. Paul in a 10-round heavyweight championship contest at Benton Harbor, Mich., Labor day.

The champion, according to announcement by Promoter Fitzsimmons, has been guaranteed $50,000, with the privilege of accepting a percentage of the receipts, while Miske has been guaranteed $25,000.

Miske has promised to establish training quarters in Benton Harbor four weeks before the contest and also agrees to call off two scheduled matches.

The contest will be staged in the open-air arena in which Benny Leonard defended his lightweight championship against Charlie White July 5.

Miske is regarded by the promoters as a logical opponent for Dempsey, as he fought him twice before. Dempsey defeated Jess Willard for the heavy weight title. They met in a 10-round engagement in St. Paul and in a six-round contest in Philadelphia, Miske claiming to have had the better of their Philadelphia meeting.

The St. Paul heavyweight is much heavier than when he fought Dempsey the first time, tipping the scales in the neighborhood of 192 pounds.

It will be a decision, providing Dempsey agrees, Promoter Fitzsimmons announced last night.

TO INVESTIGATE WILLS-FULTON BOUT

TRENTON, N. J., July 25.—Governor Edwards yesterday ordered a sweeping investigation into the management of the Fulton-Wills boxing bout in Newark Monday night, which, it is alleged, hundreds who had paid as high as $15 and $20 for admission tickets were unable to get into the arena because of the inadequate system of handling the crowd.

The matter was brought to the attention of the governor by State Senator Simpson of Hudson county, who said that the situation "closely approached a scandal."

Not only did many buyers of admission tickets find it impossible to get into the arena, Governor Edwards said he had been informed, but holders of press and inspectors' passes were also turned down.

The bout was conducted by the International Sporting club of New York, which had found it impossible to stage a bout in New York because of the law.

The Call'em

We never are able to pick up a paper nowadays and read of our swimming record having been placed on the books by Norman Ross, holder of any number of world marks over varying distances, without feeling our throats turn back a couple of years when Ross was a lieutenant in the United States air service at one of the California fields. Ever since he was kid with a pair of fists tucked away from his parents' gaze he has been a swimmer.

But it is only in the last few years that his water work has won him national and even inter-national fame.

Couldn't See the Reason

I do not think it will be a breach of army discipline at this late date to uncover a few personal jottings about Norman's precocities during his days of service. He liked army life as well as a cat likes water and aside from the normal form of lying he could see but courtesy and discipline which, when a riot broke out every army unit or camp. The result was that confinement to quarters at the flying field was not a punishment. In this particular case that was an all-sufficient punishment inasmuch as the officers were allowed to hold quarters across the bay in the city.

The C.O. Never Knew

ON BOARD THE U.S.S. PRINCESS MATOIKA, July 27 (By Wireless to the Associated Press).—Perfect sailing weather today permitted the members of the American Olympic team to settle down into their 11-day training routine. A 10-yard cork sprint track has been laid on the upper deck and punching bag stands and wrestling mats have been placed. There is a canvas swimming tank on the lower deck, but when filled with sea water today it will under the strain and will have to be repaired.

The sprinters practiced starts and dashes in the forenoon, while the gladiators circled the lower deck many times this afternoon under the eyes of their trainers. The wrestlers, boxers, fencers, shot-putters and tug-of-war men worked out under the direction of their respective coaches.

For the balance of the trip the training will be for twelve-a-day sessions when the weather is fair.

Owing to the heat of the lower decks, first place winners in the try-outs of their trainers. The wrestlers, boxers, fencers, shot-putters and tug-of-war men worked out under the direction of their respective coaches.

BILLY MURPHY OF N. Y. U. S. OLYMPIC TEAM HAS FINE RECORD TRAINS ON WAY OVER

As Billy Murphy of Staten Island, N. Y., who is matched to meet Billy Fitzsimmons of Chelsea, in the main event of 12 rounds at Spaulding park Saturday afternoon, is a new comer in this vicinity, a little review of his activities will convince the fans that the New York and New Jersey fans have some grounds for their claim that he is the best looking prospect developed in that vicinity since the days of Terry McGovern.

Murphy is under the management of Eddie Harvey, manager of Jimmy Duffy and several other high class performers. Harvey has been a very successful handler of ring men, and it has been only a few days since he has been in the ring with a record of 10 wins and 10 losses.

Murphy has newspaper decisions over Benny Valger, Jack Sharkey, Billy Aitken, whom Tom O'Rourke brought to this country as a British champion, to "Tipitiz," Sammy Waltz, Bobby Michaels, Charles Hayes, Joe Leonard, Willie Brown and many others. He has been boxing four years and has not had a decision registered against him in 41 months.

He was matched to meet Johnny Kilane at Waterbury, Conn., on June 17, 1920, but labor troubles in that city put a blink on boxing. George Mulholland, who was promoting the match, still has hopes of staging it at a later date.

Joe Lynch turned down three offers to meet Murphy in decision bouts, the offers coming from Waterbury, Hartford and Meriden, Conn.

DEMPSEY AND MISKE TO FIGHT LABOR DAY

CHICAGO, July 25.—Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion of the world, was matched late yesterday to meet Miske of St. Paul in a 10-round heavyweight championship contest at Benton Harbor, Mich., Labor day.

The champion, according to announcement by Promoter Fitzsimmons, has been guaranteed $50,000, with the privilege of accepting a percentage of the receipts, while Miske has been guaranteed $25,000.

Miske has promised to establish training quarters in Benton Harbor four weeks before the contest and also agrees to call off two scheduled matches.

The contest will be staged in the open-air arena in which Benny Leonard defended his lightweight championship against Charlie White July 5.

Miske is regarded by the promoters as a logical opponent for Dempsey, as he fought him twice before. Dempsey defeated Jess Willard for the heavy weight title. They met in a 10-round engagement in St. Paul and in a six-round contest in Philadelphia, Miske claiming to have had the better of their Philadelphia meeting.

The St. Paul heavyweight is much heavier than when he fought Dempsey the first time, tipping the scales in the neighborhood of 192 pounds.

It will be a decision, providing Dempsey agrees, Promoter Fitzsimmons announced last night.

TO INVESTIGATE WILLS-FULTON BOUT

TRENTON, N. J., July 25.—Governor Edwards yesterday ordered a sweeping investigation into the management of the Fulton-Wills boxing bout in Newark Monday night, which, it is alleged, hundreds who had paid as high as $15 and $20 for admission tickets were unable to get into the arena because of the inadequate system of handling the crowd.

The matter was brought to the attention of the governor by State Senator Simpson of Hudson county, who said that the situation "closely approached a scandal."

Not only did many buyers of admission tickets find it impossible to get into the arena, Governor Edwards said he had been informed, but holders of press and inspectors' passes were also turned down.

The bout was conducted by the International Sporting club of New York, which had found it impossible to stage a bout in New York because of the law.

The Call'em

We never are able to pick up a paper nowadays and read of our swimming record having been placed on the books by Norman Ross, holder of any number of world marks over varying distances, without feeling our throats turn back a couple of years when Ross was a lieutenant in the United States air service at one of the California fields. Ever since he was kid with a pair of fists tucked away from his parents' gaze he has been a swimmer.

But it is only in the last few years that his water work has won him national and even inter-national fame.

Couldn't See the Reason

I do not think it will be a breach of army discipline at this late date to uncover a few personal jottings about Norman's precocities during his days of service. He liked army life as well as a cat likes water and aside from the normal form of lying he could see but courtesy and discipline which, when a riot broke out every army unit or camp. The result was that confinement to quarters at the flying field was not a punishment. In this particular case that was an all-sufficient punishment inasmuch as the officers were allowed to hold quarters across the bay in the city.

The C.O. Never Knew

Moreover, there was only one possible way of leaving the field (which was by boat) and as the tide was more or less strict Norman's chances of slipping in and out were decidedly slim. All the more wonderful was it, therefore, when one evening he happened on the beach sands of Coronado. He had covered the mile and a half by easy swim through a burning sun, caught and did ten stunts several times. White followed directions, went to the Klondike and came back to "live happily ever afterwards."

MASS. COTTON MILLS
ON HONOR ROLL

One of the local cotton mills has won a place on the "honor roll" of the savings division, first federal reserve district, just issued, as a result of the fine showing made by the war savings societies of that plant. The roll comprises only 60 companies out of more than 1200 war savings societies in all New England, and covers the purchases of war savings stamps and thrift stamps for the past three months. The Lowell company thus far honored is the Massachusetts cotton mills, whose war savings societies have 63 members, and whose purchases of thrift and war savings stamps for this period amounted to $525.80.

Now, it seems, the men have adopted this "new clothing for bad" idea of the housewife and have discovered a tailor who is running a "clothes hospital." He is Mr. Newman of Union square, New York. Old suits are turned inside out, equipped with a new lining and are good for a few years more. He is doing considerable toward helping the country's big men to beat the high cost of living. Among his customers he numbers U. S. Senator Medill McCormick of Illinois and U. S. Senator William M. Calder of New York.

BRITISH CHALLENGER
BEATEN FOR 13TH TIME

NEW YORK, July 28.—For the 13th successive time, since the inauguration of international yachting contests a half century ago, the British challenger has been defeated by a Yankee defender of the America's cup, the perennial trophy named from the schooner yacht America, which won the first race from Great Britain in 1851.

Before Shamrock IV, 12 challengers strove in vain for the 100-guinea pewter mug, which, since its founding as a world yachting prize, has been in the custody of the New York Yacht club. Sir Thomas Lipton has failed in his fourth attempt to realize a cherished ambition, after trying since 1903 with three straight races by Reliance, largest of all cup defenders.

Then came Sir Thomas' challenge with a 15-footer to race in 1914 and Shamrock IV, was on her way to America when the world war started. From the opening of hostilities until the signing of the armistice, she was in drydock in Brooklyn. Then she was taken to a shipyard at City Island to be put into commission and Sir

Thomas sent to this country his 23-metre Shamrock to act as a "trial horse" for the challenger. Only twice prior to the 1920 series had a challenger crossed the finish line ahead of the defender. On Sept. 10, 1895, Valyria III, finished one minute and 16 seconds ahead of the American boat, but withdrew from the race and on Oct. 4, 1901, Shamrock II, finished 2 seconds ahead of Columbia, but lost because of a 12-second allowance.

Are you sure of your brakes?

Unreliable brakes are a constant menace to your safety

THE traffic officer signals you to stop and it takes six or eight feet more than you thought necessary.

Perhaps in this case it means nothing more than a little embarrassment.

Suppose, however, it was an emergency that demanded a sudden stop.

Those few feet might mean the difference between safety and a serious accident.

And yet to have your brakes always efficient is as easy as it is necessary.

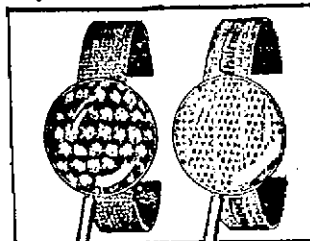

Ask your garage man to inspect them regularly.

If they are O.K. he will tell you so and the knowledge will create a feeling of security you could not otherwise hope for.

If they need relining have it done but do not buy just "brake lining"—your safety is too important for that. Experts specify a lining only after they know what it will do—after exhaustive tests—and all leading car and axle builders specify Thermoid Brake Lining.

The national brake inspection movement

Your attention is called to this movement which has increased and will continue to increase the safety of the road only as all motorists realize their duty to lend it their support and to have their brakes inspected before the touring season opens.

Ordinary Woven Lining

Notice the loosely woven texture.

Wears down quickly and unevenly.

Loses its gripping power as it wears.

Specify Thermoid—it offers you more material—greater service

1. There is over 40% more material and 60% more labor in the manufacture of Thermoid Brake Lining than in any woven brake lining.

2. Thermoid Brake Lining is Grapnelized, an exclusive process which creates resistance to moisture, oil and gasoline.

3. Every square inch of Thermoid is hydraulic compressed at a pressure of 2000 pounds.

Because of this, Thermoid is uniform all the way through. It cannot compress in service, causing constant adjustment of the bands.

The measure of Thermoid value

These three exclusive features form the measure of Thermoid value to the motorist—his assurance of longest, safest service at the lowest possible price.

ARBITRATION HEARING MAY END TOMORROW

(Special to The Sun)
STATE HOUSE, Boston, July 28.—The wage arbitration proceedings being held on the demands of the employees of the Eastern Massachusetts will probably be concluded by tomorrow.
The company expects to finish the presentation of its case Thursday in time to permit the delivery of final arguments by both sides. The employees' case is already in.
At yesterday's session, Caleb S. Jackson, comptroller of the road, went into detail on the various phases of the company's past and present financial condition. At the conclusion of his testimony, Chairman Hugh Ogden, the representative of the public on the arbitration board, asked the witness if it is true that the road has never earned the cost of service, as defined by the legislature, since it passed into the management of the trustees. Mr. Jackson answered in the affirmative, adding that the deficit incurred since that time has been steadily mounting until it has reached at the present time a sum in the neighborhood of $2,000,000. The cost of service as defined by the legislature includes an allowance for dividends at the rate of six per cent.

Chairman Ogden asked the witness also if any increase in pay which might be granted to the men would augment the deficit by an equal amount and Mr. Jackson answered this question, too, in the affirmative.
Philip Carlton, counsel for the road, read into the record extracts from a decision of the old public service commission, rendered in December, 1918, on a petition of the road for an increase in fare, to the extent which is anything like the percentage of the fare increases. In this respect the board was also quoted as saying "It is quite clear that increases in fare impose a burden upon the public which considerably exceeds the benefit which they bring to the companies." Howard F. Fritch, assistant general manager, testified that 23 per cent of the carmen employed by the road own their own homes.

Attorney Carlton offered in evidence a statement as to the maximum wages being paid at the present time on the principal roads in Massachusetts. These are as follows: Attleboro Branch, 57 cents; Boston Elevated, 70; Boston & Worcester, 52; Brockton & Plymouth, 50; Concord, Maynard & Hudson, 50; Connecticut Valley, 50; Fitchburg & Leominster, 57; Holyoke, 55; Interstate Consolidated, 57; Massachusetts Northern, 60; Middlesex & Boston, 53; Milford, Attleboro and Woonsocket, 57; Milford and Uxbridge, 52; Springfield, 57; Union, 60; and Worcester Consolidated 57.

THE PARK DEPARTMENT

Recommendations by Superintendent Contained in Annual Report for 1919

The acquisition of a park and playground in West Centralville, to accommodate the densely populated district in that part of the city, the laying out of a playground in the Highlands, the taking over of the land between Port Hill park and the plant of the American Hide and Leather Co. in Perry street, and the seizure of land in Riverside street, from Pawtucket square to Colonial avenue for the embellishment of the bank of the Merrimack river, are some of the more important recommendations made by Supt. John W. Kernan to the park commission, in the annual report of the department for 1919, made public today.

Supt. Kernan points out that there are an average of 1200 families to one-half a square mile in West Centralville, with an average of five children in each family. The necessity of establishing a breathing spot in that section is readily apparent, he says.

The great building boom in the Highlands in the past few years bringing about a rapid disappearance of vacant lots where children were wont to play in the past he considers ample justification for a playground in that section.

The land mentioned in Belvidere is now held by the United States government and if taken over for a playground would meet the needs of Belvidere children and prevent them from encroaching on the lawns of Port Hill park.

In their report, the park commissioners point out that several important improvements were made possible during the year by the co-operation of the municipal council. The most notable, they report, was the establishment of the new municipal bath house on the Merrimack. Funds were also provided during the year for a new comfort station on the South common and this is rapidly nearing completion.

The playground work of the department, the commissioners say, has become of greater importance with each passing season. The board feels that the next step in connection with this phase of recreational activities should be found in the opening of a larger number of playgrounds, especially those for small children in the more congested districts of the city. It also believes that arrangements should be made with the school department in order that the young people who take advantage of the playgrounds may be offered opportunities for work in manual training and domestic arts during part of the time.

The commissioners also report that the supervision of children's games has been carried on through the summer under the direction of the board by Miss Alice T. Lee and William W. Dennett whose records are appended in the general report of the department. In conclusion, the board of commissioners have the following to say:

"Many important projects for the better development of the city's park and recreational opportunities have been brought to the attention of the board during the year. It seems a pity that it is not possible under the present condition of city finances for more of these projects to be taken up immediately. The board is bearing them all in mind and is doing all that seems possible in the case of each."

"We have again in express to Supt. John W. Kernan and the staff working under his direction our cordial thanks for the efficient and courteous service which has been rendered throughout the year."

The 1919 report includes a number of excellent photographs showing various activities of the department. Among them are photos of the South common wading pool, a scene in front of city hall on Armistice day, the new bath house and the Cardinal O'Connell bust and fountain.

THE BOULEVARD DANCE HALL

Stage Set for Hearing Before License Board Last Evening

Hearing Didn't Materialize— Responsibility Shifted to the City Council

In the police court room last night, the stage was set for a lively hearing before the license board on the question of licensing a dance hall on the Pawtucket boulevard. Long before the time set for the hearing, the court room was crowded with several hundred men and women.

In addition to the large assembly inside, nearly a hundred others stood in groups outside the Market street building, discussing the issue involved so that it was difficult to tell "who was for which or which for what." A feeling of earnestness pervaded the gathering, and yet it was difficult to judge what proportion of those present favored the petition and what opposed. There were present large property owners, merchants, clergymen, doctors and lawyers, in addition to a thoroughly representative body of the citizens of Pawtucketville, in which section the dance hall is being constructed.

There would have been a very exciting time had the supporters and opponents been given a chance to speak; but previous to the meeting, the lawyers engaged on both sides got together and agreed that before the hearing is held, it would be well to settle the question of the board's jurisdiction, claiming that the legal authority to grant a license such as petitioned for is vested in the municipal council and not in the license commission.

That the general statute passed by the state legislature in 1908, in reference to the granting of licenses for public amusements and theatricals had done away with all pre-existing laws and bearing upon the issue; and consequently, that the power to grant or revoke licenses had been taken away from the license board and vested in the city council, was the particular point raised. The counsel for the petitioners also brought up the point that, even if the license commission did have jurisdiction in the case, it could not legally take any action until the building is fully completed.

In accepting the views of the lawyers, Chairman Hanson definitely stated that until the city solicitor decides the question of jurisdiction, it will remain uncertain whether the postponed hearing will be held under the auspices of the license commission or the city council.

At 8:15 o'clock, Chairman Hanson called to order and declared the hearing open.
Lawyer D. J. Donahue, on behalf of the petitioners, in a brief address raised the question of jurisdiction in which he was assisted by Lawyer D. J. Murphy. Lawyers Francis W. Qua and Francis M. Qua also acquiesced in the presentation of the legal aspect of the case and it was unanimously accepted by the commission. On motion of Commissioner McGrath it was voted to postpone the hearing pending the decision of the legal question.

Rev. Mr. Lyon of the Pawtucket church, stated that he felt the hearing should be held regardless of the point raised; but the commissioner declared the meeting adjourned.

The following act approved by the state legislature on April 14, 1918, gave the power of granting and revoking such licenses as petitioned for, to the police board:

An Act to Amend the Charter of the City of Lowell

"Section 1—All the powers vested by existing laws in the mayor and aldermen or board of aldermen of the city of Lowell in relation to licensing, regulating and restraining theatrical exhibitions, public shows and public amusements, billiard tables, bowling alleys, auctioneers, hawkers and peddlers, carriages, wagons and other vehicles, intelligence offices, itinerant musicians, pawnbrokers, dealers in second-hand articles and junk collectors and dealers and generally all the powers and authority of said mayor and aldermen in relation to the granting and revocation of licenses for engaging in any and all of the above mentioned trades and occupations, shall hereafter vest in and be exercised by the board of police of said city of Lowell."

New England consumption will come from mines in Pennsylvania, Maryland, West Virginia and Virginia.

Orders of the interstate commerce commission include provisions for an embargo against tidewater shipments until daily consignments to New England are filled. This restriction, coal operators declared, practically will shut off export of coal.

To Fix Soft Coal Prices

NEW YORK, July 28.—Atty. Gen. A. Mitchell Palmer agreed with representatives of the coal industry at a conference here yesterday to appoint a representative committee which will fix the maximum price for bituminous coal. It is agreed that individuals the board of police of the city of Lowell shall have the same force and effect as similar licenses heretofore granted by the mayor and aldermen or board of aldermen of said city.

"Section 6—All acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed."

The general act of 1908, which was referred to as superseding the act of 1906 is contained in Acts of 1908, Chapter 255, Section 2, and is as follows:

The mayor of a city or the selectmen of a town may, except as provided in Section 46 of Chapter 108 of the revised laws, grant, upon such terms and conditions as they deem reasonable, a license for theatrical exhibitions, public shows, public amusements and exhibitions of every description to which admission is obtained upon the payment of money or upon the delivery of any valuable thing, or by a ticket or voucher obtained for money or any valuable thing, or in which after free admission, amusement is furnished upon a deposit of money in a mechanical device known as the "nickel in the slot" machine, or in any other similar machine, and the mayor or selectman may revoke or suspend such license at any pleasure, but they shall not grant a license for any such theatrical exhibitions which are inconsistent with the due observance of the Lord's day.

To decide from these or other existing statutes in what municipal board the power to license dance halls is vested, is the question submitted to the city solicitor.

Snyder of the New York Central, representing the railroads, and Wm. G. Towne, Charles A. Owen, Charles L. Couch and Harlow Voorhees, representing the wholesale coal trade.

Mine Workers Denial

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 28.—In a statement today, C. F. Keene, president of District No. 17, United Mine Workers, charges that the report of Major T. B. Davis of his investigation of Guyan Valley coal field conditions is designed to "discredit" our organization.

In his report, made public yesterday, Major Davis declared that his aimed march of miners toward the Guyan Valley and to enforce organization last September, was started by the United Mine Workers. Mr. Keene in his statement, said the allegation that the union was responsible for the invasion is a "preparatory step in an under standing between Gov. Cornwell of West Virginia, and Gov. Morrow of Kentucky, to discredit our organization, is possible and break the strike in Mingo county." He charges that "the constituted authorities" were responsible for the march "for permitting coal operators to create private armies to function in place of the police power of the state as conferred by its citizens."

Would Confiscate Coal

ST. LOUIS, July 28.—Appointment of a fuel conservator here, with authority to confiscate and distribute coal belonging to the railroads in order to meet the shortage occasioned by the strike in the Illinois fields, will be urged on President Wilson, Mayor Henry W. Kiel has announced.

The president will be asked to take immediate action, he said, in order to protect essential industries.

The plan was decided upon following a conference of the mayor with a committee from the coal service bureau, representing dealers who are said to handle 90 per cent. of the coal sold here.

COX GIVES ALL DAY TO SPEECH

Installments Sent to Printer With Arrangements for Strict Secrecy

DAYTON, Ohio, July 28.—An all day stretch dictating to his secretary his address for August 7, accepting the democratic presidential nomination, was the exclusive but formidable affair today before Governor Cox. It was the first day since his nomination that his engagement list was blank and he planned to make the most of the opportunity to work uninterruptedly on the acceptance speech.

Installments of the address were to begin going to the governor's print shop today, with arrangements for strict secrecy. The governor has stated that he desires to have his address "live copy" in its new features as delivered August 7, without being discounted by advance statements.

With the party platform silent on prohibition, friends of the governor here who have been associated with him for years, express the belief that he will not mention it in the speech of acceptance, but that, with what they say is characteristic fearlessness, he will have no hesitation in discussing the subject in his campaign speeches.

Because of his newspaper training, the governor was reported today to be making fast work of his address. But he is exercising great care, as indicated by composition of a few of the main subjects in pencil. The length of the address was today said to be still problematical.

Gov. Cox yesterday held a lengthy conference with Sen. Pomeroy of Ohio. The League of Nations issue, as well as the decision to demand that a thorough investigation be conducted by the senate subcommittee, of which Mr. Pomeroy is a member, into contributions to the campaign funds of both great parties, were the chief topics which Gov. Cox and the senator took up.

Harding Easy

MARION, Ohio, July 28.—Preliminary work on his first front porch speech, to be delivered Saturday to a delegation from Mansfield, Ohio, was begun today by Senator Harding. He indicated that he would make only a short address, and he did not interrupt his schedule of callers during its preparation.

Harding Congratulates Coolidge
The following message was sent by Senator Harding today to Governor Coolidge:

"It is heartening to all America to read your sterling speech of acceptance. It adds to confidence in the republican purpose to repossess the people with their government and it emphasizes my conviction that as vice president, you will be asked to make your official services comport with the second highest place in the government of the republic."

BIG FIRE IN BEEF HOUSE

CHICAGO, July 28.—Twenty firemen were overcome today while fighting a fire that practically destroyed the beef house of Armour & Co., a five story structure, covering a block at the stock yards. The flames menaced a million dollars worth of beef in adjoining storage plants.

LAWRENCE, July 28.—Bragio Rapisardi, a local mill operative, was shot and killed here early today by Arthur H. Cyscough, a special policeman employed by the Boston & Maine railroad. The man opened fire when the officer found him attempting to steal from a freight car. Cyscough was wounded twice in the leg.

NEW HIGH SCHOOL

Program for Laying of Corner Stone Tomorrow

Very simple exercises will surround the laying of the corner stone of the new high school building in Kirk street tomorrow afternoon at 4.30, according to present plans of the high school building commission.

At a conference between Mayor Perry D. Thompson and Dr. John H. Lambert, chairman of the building commission, at city hall this morning, the program was outlined. A copper box, containing the names of the members of the municipal council, the school board, the architect and the building commission, the various legislative acts which led up to the creation of the commission and other papers connected with the erection of the structure, will be imbedded in one of the granite blocks in the corner of the new building nearest the old high school building in Kirk street.

A temporary platform has been erected for the speakers. The mayor suggested today that along with the other names which are to be put in the copper box, those of the original high school commission be added, as he believed the original body played an important part in the preliminary work connected with getting the project started. Whether this suggestion will be favorably acted upon is not known. Chairman Lambert will preside at tomorrow's exercises and only a few speakers will be called upon.

CANAL SWIMMING

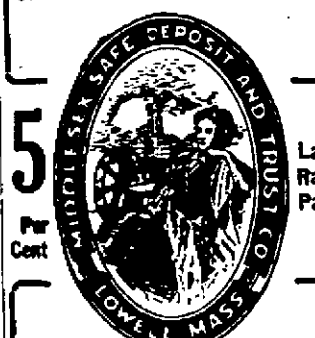

AREA RESTRICTED

There will be no more swimming or bathing in that portion of the Northern canal which is directly in the rear of the C.M.A.C. clubhouse in Merrimack street in accordance with instructions given today to Supt. Redmond Welch of the police department by Mayor Perry D. Thompson.

Following a conference with Arthur T. Safford, chief engineer of the Locks & Canals, the mayor decided to prevent further fatalities in the canal, which is particularly dangerous at the point mentioned, by issuing a general order prohibiting swimming and bathing there. Patrolmen in that section of the city will be instructed by Supt. Welch to keep an eye on the place to see that the new rule is not violated.

ROOT PRESENTS LINCOLN STATUE

Ex-Secretary of State Speaker at Unveiling of Monument in London Today

Event Wildly Heralded as Further Cementing Anglo-American Friendship

LONDON, July 28.—Elhu Root, former American secretary of state, who recently took part in the work of the commission of jurists at the Hague for the establishment of a permanent international court of justice, today formally presented to the British people the Saint Gaudens statue of Lincoln in Cannon square, as a gift from America and later the statue was unveiled. Premier Lloyd George abandoned official business to deliver the speech of acceptance.

The presentation was made in the presence of a distinguished audience in the central hall of Westminster with Viscount Bryce, former British ambassador to the United States, presiding. The event was widely heralded in the British press as further cementing Anglo-American friendship.

In the course of his address, Mr. Root declared: "It would be difficult to conceive of a sharper contrast in all the incidental and immaterial things of life than existed between Lincoln and the statesmen whose statues stand in parliament square."

Later in his address, however, Mr. Root said: "It is the identical fundamental conceptions in both countries which make it impossible that in any great world emergency Great Britain and America can be on opposing sides. Those conceptions of justice and liberty are the breath of life, for both. While they prevail, both nations will endure; if they perish, both nations will die. These were Lincoln's inheritances."

"We may disregard all life's prejudices and quarrels that result from casual friction and pin-pricks and from outside misrepresentation and detraction, and rest upon Lincoln's unerring judgment of his countrymen and his race. We may be assured from him that whenever trials come, whenever there is need for assurance of the inherent power, truth and triumph of justice, humanity and freedom—then the peace and friendship between Great Britain and America will prove as Lincoln desired to make them, perpetual."

Mr. Root recounted in great detail Lincoln's life struggles and his ideals, which he maintained Englishmen understood at the time he commanded public attention. He emphasized this by reading a copy of a sympathetic letter 6000 Manchester cotton operatives, unemployed because of the shortage of cotton during the war between the northern and southern states, sent to Lincoln after promulgation of the emancipation proclamation.

In an endeavor to impress upon his audience the human side of Lincoln, Mr. Root read familiar parts of his second inaugural address and his letter to Mrs. Bixby of Boston, when he learned she had lost five sons in battle.

Wells has prepared a folder, 3 1/2 by 5 inches in size, with six pages that it is proposed to have distributed in large quantities free of cost to business men of the city to be used for slipping into the envelopes with the letters that they send out. Occupying two pages of the folder will be a map of southern New England and part of the northern states of Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont. Lowell will be shown in its strategic position as a business and trading city, and the principal roads.

Duck for Resolute Sails Made at Bay State Mills in This City

It will interest the people of Lowell to know that the canvas used for the sails of the Resolute, the yacht that defeated the Shamrock IV, was made at the Bay State cotton mill on Marginal street, in this city.

Superintendent Woodman stated to a Sun representative today, that the order for sail duck for the Resolute was manufactured with the greatest care that could be given to it, and that it was the best piece of goods of the kind that could be made in the United States. Assistant Superintendent Joseph Wilmott had charge of getting out the order and he spared no pains in seeing that every thread and fibre was perfect. Agent George Dearborn was also much interested in producing this piece of goods, knowing what the serious consequences might be if it was not absolutely perfect.

The officials of the mill, as well as the operatives who worked on the order, were very glad to hear of the victory won by the Resolute, as each one of them seemed to have a personal interest in the contest.

Decision Reached by Lloyd George and Millerand on Conference With Soviets

Anti-Bolshevik Papers Declare Lloyd George Has Surrendered—Paris Pleased

LONDON, July 28.—The decision reached by Premier Millerand and Lloyd George at the Boulogne conference, yesterday—to stand by the original plan for a peace conference with Russian soviets and that the London conference which the soviet demanded could not take place unless the Bolsheviks reversed their present attitude and agreed to discuss at the conference peace with Poland and with all qualified representatives of Russia and the border states in attendance—receives no enthusiastic endorsement by the London press. By the anti-Bolshevik papers it is roundly denounced, one of them saying that it "will bring nearer that diplomatic recognition of the soviet government, which we especially detest and dread."

Premier Lloyd George is sharply criticized, as one of them puts it, for surrendering to the Bolsheviks and creating by his policy a very serious situation.

The London Times declares the matter "too grave for irrevocable decision behind closed doors," and maintains that it must be submitted to the parliament of the allies. The paper sympathizes with the French view that America must have a voice in the question, implying its belief that America would repudiate an agreement based on Bolshevik conditions.

Paris Press Gratiified
PARIS, July 28.—The Paris press is gratified over the results of the Boulogne conference. Most of the papers unite in considering the outcome a "feather in M. Millerand's cap," pointing out that he persuaded Premier Lloyd George to adopt the French views both on the Russian and coal questions.

"The financial agreement concluded at Spa," says Pertinax, political writer of the Echo de Paris, "remains to be seen but there is now a light on the horizon, and if the reparations commission knows how to play the part assigned it, the blunders of a fortnight ago will be reduced to the dimensions of temporary mistakes."

WOMAN HALTS RUNAWAY CAR

Motorman Gave Chase in Auto—Air Brakes Failed to Hold

WORCESTER, July 28.—Failure of the air control on a street car here to function properly today caused the car to start when the motorman and conductor had left the car to telephone and the car dashed a distance of a mile before it was brought under control by Mrs. Bertha Viella who with her three small children were the only passengers.

The motorman boarded an automobile and gave chase to the runaway car and after overtaking it, jumped from the automobile into the car and brought it to a full stop.

The car attained the rate of 50 miles an hour during its mad dash down the hill and passed several bad curves in its wild flight, but managed to hold the rails.

Mrs. Viella and the children were uninjured.

FEDERAL AUTHORITIES TO ACT IN PONZI CASE

BOSTON, July 28.—The accounts of Charles Ponzi, the dealer in international postal coupons, who has obtained several millions of dollars from the New England public on his promise to pay 50 per cent profits, will be audited both by county and federal authorities. United States Attorney Gallagher announced today that he would place an auditor on Ponzi's books with a view not only to learn whether his business was solvent, but also to determine whether his juggling of international stamps involved any violation of federal laws.

The rush of people to withdraw their money from Ponzi's hands began after he had concurred in a suggestion by District Attorney Pelletier that he take no more money in, continued today. "Pi Alley," where he established temporary quarters to accommodate the crowds, was the scene of a day long queue of people, who would from the former tap room, where the quarters were located, into City Hall Avenue. Ponzi ordered sandwiches and coffee served those in line who foresook luncheon to get their money back, or to collect on notes matured with the 50 per cent interest paid by Ponzi.

All those who applied for their money, and who conformed with the simple conditions laid down by Ponzi, were paid. He said he paid out several hundred thousand dollars yesterday, and thought the run would cross the million dollar mark today.

He has estimated his total liabilities at $2,000,000, and said he had $1,000,000 in this country and abroad to meet them. With the publicity recently given his operations, it has developed that he came to this country from Italy a few years ago, with only $250 and until late last year was a low-salaried clerk in an exporting house.

United States Attorney Gallagher said that his investigation might show "that Ponzi is, at least theoretically, solvent and yet an offender against federal law. He may be able to do all he says he is doing, and yet violate the law."

"As I told Ponzi the other day," he continued, "he is either a benefactor deserving of the blessings of the public, or he should be in jail. Ponzi agreed to that. It goes without saying, that if Ponzi is solvent and has violated no federal statute, the government will give him a clean slate. It also goes without saying that if he has violated the law, federal action will be taken against him."

"There are no new developments in the case to my knowledge."

A new type of protectionism known as "frontier control," has come into existence in Europe.

COAL SHIPMENTS START MONDAY

Priority Orders Will Move Coal to N. E. at Rate of 1,250,000 Tons a Month

WASHINGTON, July 28.—Adequate orders have been issued, members of the Interstate commerce commission believe, to relieve the coal shortage in New England. Beginning next Monday, under priority orders promulgated yesterday by the commission, coal will be moved through five Atlantic ports to New England consignees at the rate of 1,250,000 tons a month. Coal dealers were agreed that if shipments were maintained at this level a fuel famine would be averted.

J. W. Howe of New York, today began to arrange for the assignment of cars to mines for shipments that will pass through the ports of New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore. E. M. Graham of Newport News will act in a similar capacity for the ports of Norfolk and Newport News. Coal for

STILLS LOCKED UP AT POLICE STATION

Evidence that the local police department has been doing all in its power to enforce the prohibition law and to arrest violators of the Volstead act is piled up in Cell No. 15 in the local police station. Judging from the number of stills collected there the police and federal officers have been very successful in their raids in this city and vicinity recently.

During the past four weeks Federal Officers O'Day, Conley, Hurley, Kelly and Powers, assisted by the local police, usually Supt. Redmond Welch and Liquor Inspector P. E. Clark or Officer Winn, have made about 10 raids and as a result have seized about 25 stills of various styles, all waiting in Cell No. 15 for the attention of the federal authorities in Boston. Besides the stills the police have also taken considerable "moonshine" and mash.

The majority of the stills are improvised from ordinary tin or copper wash boilers fitted out with the necessary piping.

The crust of the stills are made from wooden buckets while the largest are made from specially constructed copper boilers which display the work of expert cooperage. Others are made from milk cans, large cans shaped like the ordinary kerosene containers and tin pails. The collection also includes a considerable quantity of piping and rubber tubing.

PRELIMINARY OFFICERS

The list of precinct officers for 1920 will be announced by the board of election commissioners during the present week, Chairman Hugh C. McKim said today. It is understood that a number of new names have been suggested by one member of the board and are being considered before the list is made public.

"DEAD OR ALIVE" IS RAT BATTLE SLOGAN

BY GEORGE B. WATERS,
N.E.A. Staff Correspondent.
NEW ORLEANS, July 26.—The bubonic plague has brought on a slogan of "dead or alive" for all rats, and Gulf port cities have entered, with a spirit, in the battle to exterminate the disease-carrying pests.

In New Orleans alone 270,000 rats have been trapped in the past eight months, and it is estimated that there are still 1,000,000 in the city.

Dr. M. S. Lombard, surgeon of the United States Public Health Service, in charge of the rat-extermination campaign in Louisiana, has started a school to train rat-catchers. In the hope that they would be trapped and killed faster than they breed.

In the Parish of Orleans there are now 220 men who do nothing but catch rats, dead or alive, and they have worked their way into the rattiest quarters of the port.

With a price placed on the pests' heads—25 cents for a live rat and 10 cents for a dead one—the new occupation has already brought forth the man who claims to be the champion rat hunter of the world. He is Joe Boulet, and, as a reward for valiant service, has been sent to Beaumont to aid in ridding that section of rats. Boulet made $175 in bounties in June for the high record. Besides this he received $10 in salary from the government.

As fast as the pests are brought in a corps of bacteriologists examine them for bubonic plague infection. Of the 270,000 trapped so far, 551 were infected.

The bubonic plague broke out in New Orleans in 1912 and in 1914, but was not as serious as it appears this time. Certain interests have sought to minimize the danger, but Dr. Lombard and State Health Officer Dowling are taking it seriously.

"We hope to stamp out the plague in time," says Dr. Lombard, "but it is going to cost a great deal of money and take considerable time. The millions of rats in all ports will have to be killed and their breeding places destroyed."

Thousands of buildings have had to undergo what is known as rat proofing and New Orleans is to be thoroughly cleaned, with the garbage problem properly solved, in order that the rodents will not return after they are once routed.

PASTOR AND WIFE HOLD RECEPTION

Standing surrounded by flowers and greenery in the vestry annex of the Worthen Street Baptist church, Rev. and Mrs. Walter E. Woodbury last evening gave a reception to the members of the church and congregation and other friends previous to their departure for Minneapolis next week.

In an adjoining room, the Pawtucketville orchestra furnished music as the long line of friends filed past the receiving couple. The ushers were Arthur Wilson, Arthur Johnson, Arthur Woodbury, Wallace McQuisten and Vera Clark.

During the evening Mr. Woodbury was presented with a leather traveling bag as a gift from his parishioners. Mrs. Woodbury was given a bar pin and a handbag.

The general arrangements for the reception were in charge of Mrs. Geo. Brock, president of the Ladies' Social circle. The church was decorated by members of the Christian endeavor society under the direction of President Wallace McQuisten.

Mr. Woodbury is to deliver his last address in this city at the church meeting Friday night.

He said: "I suffered from rheumatism for five years; at times could scarcely walk. My left hand was helpless for six or eight weeks; the left shoulder badly involved, and running up into the head. I used to go up and down stairs on my hands and knees. My stomach, too, was in very bad shape, and I felt if I did not get relief I would have to give up business. I took many remedies, but received no benefit. When I began taking Var-ne-sis I was in constant pain, but after a short time I began to feel relieved. WHAT more wonderful thing in the world is there than the love of the lover for some girl's glorious hair that has held him in its thrall.

What more pitiful thing is there than the girl with poor, thin, stringy hair, who longs above all things for that worship that has never been hers.

Therefore, what greater news could there be than the news which now comes from one of the largest and oldest and most reliable pharmaceutical houses in America that the cause for practically all hair troubles has at last been found and the remedy discovered.

No less a concern than F. A. Thompson & Company, who have manufactured medicines for your physicians and druggists for over a quarter of a century, have discovered the remedy that will not only destroy dandruff, but also the germ that causes dandruff and itching scalp and falling hair; and that this remedy is also a wonderful food for hair in producing a new and remarkably luxuriant growth and a beautiful, glossy appearance.

They have conducted tests now for a period of over four years on thousands of heads and they guarantee that this remedy, which contains no alcohol or chemicals and therefore can be used daily, will produce results that you can see within a matter of days.

They not only guarantee this, but they allow you to return the empty bottle to your druggist and get your money back in case you yourself are not satisfied with the results produced.

They have given this remarkable discovery a trade name easy to remember and have called it F.A.M.O. F.A.M.O. comes in 25c and $1 sizes. The large $1 size they guarantee will effect such results as to be a revelation to you. You will hardly know your own head. There is also a trial size for 25c.

You can get F.A.M.O. in this city from any toilet goods dealer under the full guarantee mentioned above. And certainly such a statement from such a concern with so complete a guarantee is worthy of a trial by any man who wants good healthy hair, or any woman who wants a luxuriant mass of it. Large stock of F.A.M.O. is carried by dealers.

If your dealer in your town cannot supply you, send 10c for a sample bottle together with their free, authoritative folder on the treatment of the hair and scalp. Address F. A. Thompson & Company, Detroit, Mich., Dept. 25.

ACCUSED OF GAMBLING

Disorder Again Breaks Out in Japanese House of Representatives—Fists Fly

TOKIO, July 28.—Disorder which characterized yesterday's session of the house of representatives was repeated today when the allegations that Baron Takahashi, minister of finance, and other ministers had improperly used their offices by indulging in stock gambling were again discussed. Several members of the opposition rushed to the rostrum, followed by government members and fist-fighting was started. Guards were obliged to interfere.

Today's trouble started when a spokesman for the government party rose to approve the decision to send Mr. Shimada, who made the charges against the ministers, before a disciplinary committee and offered a motion to this effect, saying his idea was to secure Shimada's expulsion from the house.

Replying to this Shimada, who is a famous orator declared his charges were made in the hope of "clarifying the contaminated atmosphere of officialdom" and that the denials of the ministers failed to satisfy him. Kido Ozaki, former minister, suddenly participated in the discussion, saying it was impossible to be content with the replies of the cabinet ministers.

The house adopted the anti-Shimada motion, 255 to 157.

Outside the diet building at the same time, an excited mass meeting against the cabinet was in progress. A thousand policemen were present and a number of arrests were made.

MUST REPAIR SCHOOL BOILERS

The two boilers at the Varnum grammar school in Centralville are in need of repair and are the only two boilers in the entire school department which have not passed the inspection of Charles J. Engle of the Maryland Casualty Co., according to a report received today by Commissioner George E. Marchand.

One of the boilers installed in 1898 has already been repaired several times, according to Commissioner Marchand, and cannot again be retubed as suggested by the insurance company's inspector. The boiler in question is internally corroded and there is pitting on the tubes. The heads and shell are also very thin. The commissioner sees no way out of the situation except to install a new boiler.

Boiler No. 2 at this same school also has pitting on the tubes and shell, but it is not of a serious nature. Some of the brickwork has been eaten away, but not to a degree that can be considered unsafe, according to the report of the inspector.

GIRL INSULTED

Young Man Gets House of Correction Sentence

Joseph Mello, charged with using indecent and improper language to a person of the opposite sex, was found guilty in police court today and was sentenced to four months in the house of correction. Mello appealed the decision through his counsel and was held in $200 for superior court.

The incident connected with the affair is alleged to have occurred in the vicinity of a pool room in Lincoln square on the evening of July 15. Mello was one of a group of about 20 young men who were about the pool room at the time and the one, according to the complainant, a little girl 16 years old, who first started to insult her as she passed by on her way to a nearby store. When Mello started to talk, the others, it is alleged, also addressed her indecently. The girl said that she had complained to the police about the matter before and that she and her mother had warned Mello. Both sides were represented by counsel and when giving his decision Judge Enright rendered a severe condemnation of the acts of the defendant and his associates.

COAL SHORTAGE CLOSES PLANT

GARY, Ind., July 28.—As a result of the fuel shortage, 5000 men here are idle, it was reported today. The American Sheet and Tin mill, one of the largest of its kind, was out of commission. The big Bessemer in the Gary works were operating only intermittently, the plant being seriously crippled. Twelve of the great blast furnaces were cold.

It was announced that, in order to continue partial operation, the Gary works will hereafter use oil as fuel in many departments.

GET-RICH-QUICK PLAN OF PONZI'S DISCLOSED

BOSTON, July 28.—Charles Ponzi, who in a few hours leaped from what amounted almost to obscurity into the centre of the limelight because of his "50-percent-in-90-days investment scheme," yesterday paid out several hundred thousand dollars to investors in his scheme, and in a statement issued last night declared that the payments will be continued today and every day on the same basis until all claims have been presented.

In a statement to U. S. Atty. Gallagher, Ponzi said he had let the public in on his scheme and part of its large profits because eventually he thought he would need their help in larger undertakings. Mr. Gallagher made public what he said was a summary of Ponzi's interview with him, including an outline of the method which he says has brought him profits amounting to 400 per cent, in some cases. The statement by the United States attorney follows:

"Mr. Ponzi's method is described by him as follows: 'First the conversion of American money into depreciated foreign currency, no matter what it is; or the conversion of foreign money not depreciated into foreign money that is depreciated. I do not actually send money abroad, but I use funds I have abroad between one country or the other. That is the first part of the transaction.'

"The second part is the purchasing of the depreciated currency in international reply coupons. The third part is the redemption of these coupons in countries in which the currency is not depreciated, and the conversion, of course, into postage stamps, and the fifth is either the conversion of the money that I derive from the sale of the stamps into American money, or the conversion of such money into foreign money which I thus have at my disposal to repeat the operation."

"Mr. Ponzi said that he had in the United States upwards of $5,000,000 and between $5,000,000 and $5,000,000 in deposits abroad. He was asked why it was that, having eight or nine million dollars in American money, he should need to pay agents a commission for soliciting people to invest. He said that he did not need the money but that he would eventually need the people.

WESTERLY, R. I., CENSUS.—WASHINGTON, July 28.—Census bureau announces the population of Westerly, R. I., as 9552, increase 1256, or 14.4 per cent.

SUSPENDS SECTION OF MERCHANT MARINE ACT

WASHINGTON, July 28.—The interstate commerce commission today suspended until Jan. 1, 1921, the section of the merchant marine act which permits railroads to give preferential rates to exports moving in American vessels.

Chairman Benson of the shipping board last week certified to the commission that adequate shipping facilities in vessels registered under the American flag were not available for the movement of American commerce. He stated that suspension of the discriminatory features of the Jones bill were asked pending an investigation of shipping facilities in American ports.

Plans for issuing the folder will be considered by the Community Advertising committee, of which Harold L. Chaffoux is chairman, at a meeting to be held at the Colonial next Friday at noon. It is the practice of the members of this committee to meet at noon and partake of luncheon previous to considering business matters.

It is expected that at the committee meeting a report will be made by Daniel Miller, the contractor who has charge of the placing of signs advertising Lowell alongside of roads leading to the city. It is understood that the work of placing the 100 additional signs, recently ordered by the chamber, is nearing completion.

The "Made in Lowell" label campaign, originated by the chamber, is still going on. A number of manufacturers have announced their willingness to make use of the label, and it is expected that in the near future still other concerns will fall in line.

It is doubtful if the chamber, as an organization, takes any part in the hearings on changes in the city charter that are to begin before the commission recently appointed by Mayor Thompson soon after Labor day. Two members of the chamber's board of directors are on the commission. Twenty-five thousand more of the slips warning against get-rich-quick investment schemes, issued by the chamber, were distributed to the local mills yesterday for inclusion in their weekly pay envelopes. Yesterday's batch was the second lot of the slips to be placed in circulation. Two other batches are to be sent out during the coming two weeks.

A considerable number of inquiries are being made at the chamber's rooms regarding investment schemes of various kinds. Most of these are believed to be the fruit of the pay-envelope warnings.

No information is available at the chamber rooms regarding the extent of the operations of salesmen for the securities of Ponzi, the Boston postal stamp certificate operator, whose books are now being audited after a conference with the Suffolk county district attorney. It is generally believed that the operations of Mr. Ponzi and associates in Lowell were on a smaller scale than in some other cities. It was claimed he had an agent here, a man who has been actively engaged in politics, but the gentleman in question says he is not in any way connected with Mr. Ponzi's enterprise.

Traffic Manager W. F. Whitcomb of the chamber of commerce is developing into a sort of "gloom-dispeller" for all who have transportation troubles. Not only are manufacturers and merchants turning to him to straighten out all kinds of tangles regarding the securing of freight space for the shipment of goods, and for information regarding routes and rates, but he has lately added the duties of claim adjuster to his other occupations. Recently, after a Lowell business man had negotiated in vain for the settlement of a claim against the Boston and Maine with the local officials of the road, Mr. Whitcomb took the matter up with the company officials in Boston and this morning he received a check for the full amount of the claim.

LIPTON SAYS THE BEST BOAT WON

ABOARD STEAM YACHT VICTORIA, July 28 (By wireless to the Associated Press).—"I am very sorry, but the best boat won," was Sir Thomas Lipton's remarks as Resolute crossed the line a victor yesterday and defeated the Irish baronet's fourth attempt to capture the trophy.

"We all did our best—skipper, designer and crew—and we have been beaten fair and square," said Sir Thomas.

"I have been treated throughout with the greatest fairness and sportsmanship by Americans and I am taking home the very best memory of this contest."

"I shall wait till next year to give some one else a chance to challenge me and then I shall challenge myself." "I have no excuse to offer; Resolute is the best boat," added the Irish sportsman.

FINEST RUBIES FOUND IN UPPER BURMA

The finest specimen of the ruby found from mines in Upper Burma. According to authorities, these mines were worked as early as the fifteenth century.

In 1886, it is said, a Burmese fruit dealer came into the settlement of Mogoke. In payment for his fruit, he was given a red stone. Its color and beauty pleased him so much, that he negotiated with great business for a night for the tract of land where it had been found. He secured it in 1887.

In this section of Burma, the great ruby mines are now located.

EVERY FLOWER HAS A STORY OF ITS OWN

The peony signifies bashfulness in the language of the flowers. In China it is called man-tan-fa.

the flower of prosperity, and is regarded with great pride and reverence. The great tree peony, cultivated by the Chinese, grows to a height of eight feet, and the blossoms are of immense size, measuring nine inches across.

Was Sacred Flower

To the Greeks, the peony, was a sacred flower. They believed that it came from the moon and was under special protection from that planet. It was believed that its healing powers were unfailing. The root, boiled in wine, was a cure for diseases of the stomach. In the sixteenth century, children were made from roots of the plant to prevent convulsion. Fifteen seeds, eaten before retiring, would prevent nightmares, it was said. Ancient writers claim that an extract from the peony cured insanity and falling sickness. It was also believed that great care should be exercised in digging up the roots of the plant after dark because Pegasus, the woodpecker of Mars, would attack the eyes of anyone who tried to disturb the plant.

Paeonia Was Nymph

According to the Greeks, Paeonia was a beautiful nymph. One day, when Apollo was making love to her, Paeonia happened to turn around and saw Venus regarding her angrily.

The nymph blushed so red that the color never left her face. When Venus for punishment changed her into a flower, she still retained the rosy hue.

Stefansson, the explorer, has leased 113,000 square miles of Baffin Island, where he plans to raise reindeer on a large scale.

FUNDAMENTAL VALUE OF RECREATION

The fundamental value of recreation, says the United States health service, is the development of men and women who are able to take their places in society and fulfill the requirements which society demands of them. It gives increasing physical strength, stronger moral character, a larger variety of interests and accomplishments and greater industrial efficiency. Games teach the subordination of the individual to the common good and develop the spirit of co-operation. Learning to keep the rules of the game trains the citizens in obeying laws. Recreation fits men and women to become more useful and loyal citizens by developing a more all-round individual. More important than this is the fact that recreation fits people for a larger degree of democracy. We used to talk about doing things for others, but the present idea is doing things with others. The great significance of the value of recreation is that it teaches people to play together and thus to live together harmoniously and effectively. The most striking characteristic of the present time is that people are doing more things together. We are coming together for municipal movements, national purposes, labor unions and in associations of employers and employees. Recreation is an agency which has the qualities to prepare these people who are not yet ready for it, to take their part in the great unity which is already developing in the country. Farmers who have always gloried in their independence can be made to understand the value of co-operation effort, through recreation. Foreign-born citizens can most easily be made to feel that they belong to a community by taking some part in a community recreation program. Democracy will be assured when we have successful recreation systems in our communities, for when people talk together, sing together and play together, the ideals of brotherhood are being realized.

CONTINUED AGAIN

Following a session which lasted three hours in the Aldermanic chamber at city hall yesterday afternoon, the hearing before Mayor Thompson on complaints against Patrolman John W. Mahan of the local police department of conduct unbecoming an officer, brought by Fred M. Stuart and Clifford Carpenter of Graniteville was adjourned, to be resumed next Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

held so far in the hearing. Miss witnesses for the prosecution were heard and two for the defense. The witnesses for the prosecution told much the same story in general: That Mahan in company with several officers of the Westford police department had come upon a gathering of young men at Mill's corner in Graniteville on Sunday, June 13, had pulled guns on the assumption that a crap game was in progress and that Officer Mahan had demanded that each of the 11 young men present put $5 in his hat which was placed on the ground. They did so, according to witnesses. They admitted that dice had been thrown on the ground. The witnesses who were examined for the prosecution were Fred M. Stuart, Albert W. Reeves, Wilfred D. Ducheneau, Dale Cole, Raymond Wall, Wilfrid Elliot, Charles Elliot, William Carpenter and David Toulsgant. Witnesses heard for the defense were Alonzo A. Sutherland, a special officer of the Westford department, and James A. Sherlock, chief of police of Westford. Sutherland said that some of the young men admitted that they had been shooting crap. He testified that Mahan did not demand any money in his presence. Chief Sherlock testified that he heard of no request for money. He didn't see a crap game in progress. The hearing was adjourned at 5:50 until Tuesday next at 2 p. m.

STILLS SEIZEDOfficers Find Liquor, Too—
One Arrest Made

Two stills, eight barrels of mash and a quantity of "moonshine" were seized last night by Federal Officers

Powers and Kelly, assisted by Supt. Welch and Inspector Clark of the local department in an empty tenement in Perkins street, this city. The police allege that the tenement was occasionally occupied by two men who jumped from a window in the house last night and escaped when the officers approached. The stills and other property were taken to the police station.

violation of the Volstead act. A quantity of liquor was seized at this place also, the officers claiming that they had visited this saloon before, but were unable to get evidence of liquor. Alleging that in former raids the liquor had been thrown out a rear window when the officers entered. Officer Clark stationed himself at that window last night. As the other officers entered the building some empty measures and a gallon of "moonshine" were thrown out and were secured by Clark.

INVITING ENMITIES

Congress, it seems, has laid the foundation for future international wrangling by the provision of the merchant marine law which will call for the abrogation of treaties with twenty nations.

These international compacts provide that neither nation will discriminate against the ships of the other. All these treaties must be terminated when the new merchant marine law takes effect for the reason that it provides that all imports to this country not carried in American ships will be subject to a tariff of 10 per cent.

Although it is desirable to boost our new merchant marine, it is doubtful if this policy will prove successful. Our ships can't carry all our imports and to raise a financial barrier against imports carried by the ships of other nations will doubtless lead to retaliatory action so that England, France, Italy and Japan, respectively, might put a tariff of 10 per cent or more on all their imports not carried in their own ships. Already Japan has taken counter action. That arrangement is a double edged sword, worse by far than the original arrangement to discriminate against foreign ships entering the Panama canal—a policy that had to be abandoned. We do not believe the government will find it expedient to put this new rule in practice.

This is one of the measures which the republicans of congress passed in a hurry before adjournment. This provision to put on a discriminating tariff against the carrying of imports by foreign vessels, is one of the most unwise that can be imagined. It is one of the measures to which the republicans pointed with pride when reviewing their record in congress and assailing the record of the democratic party. Already there are rumblings of national hatred from abroad. American ships find it hard to get coal, and experience many other vexatious delays.

It seems that while all the foreign nations are ready to meet friendly rivalry in a good natured way, they all resent this step and are likely to form a combination against us if this fatuous policy be persisted in. The treaties binding us against discrimination have not yet been annulled and it will be good policy to annul the new law rather than the treaties, the severance of which may ultimately lead to war.

WHERE THE MONEY GOES

Mr. W. Jett Lauck, consulting economist for the United Mine Workers of America, has made public a statement allocating the costs of producing and selling anthracite coal that retails for $14.50 a ton in Boston. According to his figures the miners get $2.71 of the retail selling price. To this is arbitrarily added $1.19 for supplies and general expenses. No intimation is given in the statement as to what the terms "supplies" and "general expenses" may cover. To a total cost of $3.90 F. O. B. at the mines is added 65 cents for "operators' margin." If we assume that "general expenses" covers overhead charges and costs of operation, other than those grouped under the head of wages, we may assume that 65 cents represents the net profit to the mine owners.

Next we have a charge of $3.29 that is described as "margin of sales agent." To this is added $1.20 a ton for freight charges to Boston, and $2.45 a ton as the retailer's margin.

The cost of anthracite coal on board the cars at the mines has increased from $2.24 to $3.90 a ton, or a total of $1.66, in six years. Freight rates, in the same time, have increased 55 cents from $2.65 to $3.20 a ton. Here we have a total increase in the actual cost of mining the coal, putting it on the cars and hauling it to Boston of $2.21 a ton. In the same six years the cost of anthracite coal to the consumer has increased from $7.75 to $14.50, or $6.75 a ton.

The item in the account that seems to stand out as possibly being the best worth investigating is the sales agent's margin that has increased from $1.19 to $3.29 a ton. What part the sales agent plays in the distribution of coal the statement of the Mine Workers' economist does not state. It would seem a reasonable inference, however, that if his duties pertain solely to selling coal, particularly at this time when buyers are tumbling over one another in their eagerness to buy, the margin that goes into his pocket is somewhat disproportionate to the services he may render. If the retail dealer can pay the costs of unloading the coal, storing it and delivering it, in addition to the expense of keeping up a plant for the carrying on of his business and the reaping of a reasonable profit on capital, invested out of a margin of $3.46 a ton, the sales agent, who apparently is only subjected to the expense of transferring the coal on paper and paying for the maintenance of an office, should be satisfied with something less than a margin of $3.29.

Perhaps a fact that should be borne in mind is that it costs $11.01 to mine and transport to Boston a ton of coal for which the consumer pays $14.50. Whether there is here any evidence of unreasonable profit is a question on which opinions may differ, but apparently the retail dealers are getting the worst end of the reckoning. Moreover coal is now selling for $17.50 and upwards instead of $14.50.

BOLSHEVIKI PLANS

Nicholai Lenine, the soviet premier, recently addressing the third international, socialistic, declared that the world's economic crisis and the failure of the League of Nations to reconcile and unite the interests of the "capitalistic" governments have given a great impetus to the movement to consolidate and organize world revolution. He emphasized the statement that the payment of the vast war debts is impossible without involving the countries in economic ruin. In this respect he quoted British authorities in favor of cancelling all war debts as a necessary step toward the re-establishment of international credit. He pointed to the non-capitalistic countries of Asia as fertile fields for the spread of soviet doctrines. It appears from these various statements that Lenine and Trotsky are closely watching the happenings elsewhere in the world, for anything that can be used to strengthen their position against anything in the line of capital and to promote their false ideas of government and the rights of property. Should the soviet government of Russia be recognized in the near future by the allied powers, she will be in a position to keep the world in a state of uncertainty as to future wars.

The Soviet has taken or is about to take the place of Germany in the ambition to dominate the world. She is not as yet doing it by force; but she will reach that stage later unless her aims are frustrated. She will at least continue to spread her propaganda as heretofore but probably with more persistence so that greater vigilance will be necessary. The menace of the Bolshevik is not laid by a long shot, and if Russia and Germany form an alliance, there will be a very near approach to the balance of power as it existed before the war. Russia has ambitions to reach the sea on the south and to defeat the purpose of any combination of nations in assuming the role of masters of the world.

OUR OVERSEAS DEAD

Undoubtedly everybody will be ready to render every aid possible to the commission appointed by Governor Coolidge "to ascertain the most appropriate methods of caring for the graves of Massachusetts' dead in foreign countries."

This commission will first try to obtain the name of the organization to which attached, date of death, place of burial. This information can be furnished in part by the relatives of the deceased soldiers and so far as known they will be communicated with. The various sources of official information on these points will also be availed of so that eventually, the commission should have a very complete record of all the Massachusetts soldiers who died in the war.

An organization has been started at the state house to make the roads of the state safe for the public. By this is meant, not that the roads are now in bad condition and that they must undergo speedy repairs. Not at all. The increased safety will consist in causing those who use the roads to be more careful, not only of their own lives but the lives of others—in fine to lessen the risk of accident to everybody who uses the public highways. It is a most necessary movement considering the great number of accidents resulting from careless or even reckless driving of motor vehicles.

SOUTH AMERICA

North American customs are reversed in parts of South America. In one district umbrellas are used only to keep off the sun. When the owner of an umbrella is caught out in the rain with it he folds the umbrella up carefully to keep it from getting wet.

Consider the La Paz district of Bolivia. There the more skirts a woman wears the greater her social distinction.

The Argentine once had a frontier life no less picturesque than that of the United States. South America has many varied points of interest. But nothing there is of more interest than the rapid growth recently of its trade with the United States.

For instance, Uruguay. Only three vessels flying the flag of the United States entered the port of Montevideo in 1914. Last year there were 151. Already this year the number is 103.

A new Trans-Andean railway is being considered by the governments of Chile and Argentina. It would connect northern Chile with Buenos Aires, and would reduce by ten days the time of shipment of American goods to interior Argentina by way of the Panama Canal. The cost of this railroad would be $25,000,000. —N. E. A.

Our Lowell contemporary says, "The whole question is whether you can bring yourself to trust the democrats to go on running the country for four more years, after seeing so many samples of their work." Some of the "samples" that may be seen in this city are overflowing savings banks, higher wages, better dressed and fed people, more prosperous merchants, more general happiness and contentment than have ever been known before.

Candidate Roosevelt, who claims to be a sort of New Englander because his mother's people lived in Fairhaven, says he hopes to deliver a number of speeches in this section if the national committee will permit him to do so. If he gets a chance to come to Lowell for one of his addresses, he will be given a chance to see exactly what a royal New England welcome is like.

It is not impossible that the British government is sowing a choice lot of dragon's teeth in carrying on its flirtations with the soviets, and consenting to the robbing of Poland at the behest of the Bolsheviks who are to have a first mortgage on Polish resources. A Germano-soviet alliance is not a remote possibility of the future.

Already the Filipinos have decided that they will boycott certain American firms in the islands if the provision of the new merchant marine law is enforced in extending to the Philippines the coastwise commercial rules of the United States. The antipodes are rather far removed to be included in our coastwise trade.

The railroad shopmen, who are to vote on the proposition to strike or not to strike, can be sure that they can decide upon but one course of action in which they will receive public support, and that is to vote "No."

The pilferers who have stolen one hundred towels from the municipal bathhouse deserve a place well up toward the top of the list of the meanest thieves. Why not adopt a system that will compel each bathier to return his towel before leaving.

One cannot help wondering what the cause may be, and if there is any remedy for it, when 15 children die in a single week in Lowell, as against 18 deaths of persons of all ages during the same week a year ago.

There is an eternal fitness in things when a courtship carried on upon the seat of a hearse brings one of the participants into the prisoner's dock in court to face a charge of murder.

Disregarding all other phases of the matter, it is plain that the closed mills of the American Woolen company are not helping to reduce the price of clothing.

It would not be strange if the Los Angelesians felt as though they were in a cradle with the foot of old mother Nature, in a nervous mood, on one of the rockers.

Advised a Change

The proprietor of the second-hand shop was not so tidy as he might have been. One day while standing in front of the shop a man approached him and said:

"Have ye any clean shirts in yer shop?" "Sure, I have," answered the clothing man, anxious for sale. "Lots of them, as clean as anything." "Well," said the man, moving away, "go in and put one of them on."

Miniature Painter

Richard Gibson, who died on July 23, 1890, just 230 years ago last Friday, was 2 feet and 6 inches tall and his wife was a bit shorter than he. Still, they had nine children, all of whom attained ordinary stature. It must have been embarrassing to Papa Gibson to have his seven-year-old son carrying him and Mother Gibson about the nursery, one under each arm. We suppose he had to hire a policeman as a nurse to keep order in the nursery. Gibson lived to be 75 and his wife died at 82. Quite appropriately, Gibson was a miniature painter—a famous one, at that.

Monitor Lizard

A very interesting creature, says a writer in the Century magazine, is the giant lizard of Africa, sometimes called the monitor lizard, which grows to a length of more than five feet. Its appearance is that of a slenderly built crocodile, and it is very active, especially in the use of its powerful tail, which it uses as a weapon. With one slap of his tail it will instantly kill a full grown chicken, and it occasionally strikes a human being. This reptile is an inveterate chicken thief, and has a method of waylaying fowls in the woods and grass, where they always manage to get a little more than their share. With such non-vivacious habits, the flesh of this lizard is naturally very good eating, and I myself have partaken of it.

Don't Rub It In

Never forget a kindness done to you, and never remember a kindness done by you, says Dr. James I. Vance. There are people, he continues, who do you a kindness, and they never let you forget it. They are not the people you love to meet on the street. One of the surest ways of making a man your enemy is to do him a kindness, and then rub it in. Never let him forget that you made him. Keep constantly before him the fact that he was lying wounded on the roadside, and you are the good Samaritan who poured in oil and wine. Keep that up for a while, and you will be able to number your patients among your most ardent despisers. This thing of gratitude is something, of course, that should be cultivated and exercised. A man is a scrub who forgets a kindness; but what sort of a man is he who refuses to let you forget it? This thing of rubbing it in on the poor devil you picked up, the kindness shown him may glorify you but it humiliates him. It takes him back to the hour of his defeat. It keeps reminding before him his failure. Nobody likes that. It is an understanding way of rivetizing your own virtues. It is a raw way of keeping yourself in the limelight. Nobody admires that. This is not meant to discourage the helping hand. God knows we all need it. None but sometimes slip, and occasionally fall. Few but have hours of loneliness and days of discouragement. It is a fine thing to help a lame dog over a stile. Don't stop because the dog fails to limp after you and lick your hand. "Forgetting the things which are behind" it is the way great souls march on.

Politics? Ain't nothing in it. Nothing so fur's I can see. I've done a lot for it sometimes. It don't do nothing for me. I've carried torches and hollored. I've fit and bled—almost died. For some pretentious old winbag—Some party's joy and its pride.

I've fretted over elections. I've put up my hard-earned kale. Voted for books, hups and stick-uns. Some of 'em landed in jail. Promises? By the quadrillion. Some of them long and some terse. Changes they all come surely. Things not a little bit worse.

Maybe you think I am funny. Not getting on at all. Over the brilliant wind-jamming. That comes along in the fall. I am too old to have spasms. Politics? The ain't my game. No matter much who's elected. I got to work. Just the same. —ROY K. MOULTON. In New York Evening Mail.

MATRIMONIAL

Mr. Alexander Proulx and Miss Alden Dion were united in matrimony at St. Joseph's church this morning; the ceremony being performed by Rev. Armand Baron, O.M.I. The bride wore white georgette crepe and veil caught up with roses and lilacs of the valley. She carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses and lilacs of the valley. She was given away by her father, Mr. Adolphe Dion. Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride, 11 Farragut street. There were guests present from New Bedford, Keene, N. H., and Canada. Later in the day the happy couple left for a wedding trip to New York and Atlantic City and upon their return will make their home in Worcester.

UNCLE SAM LOOKS INTO JAPANESE PROBLEM

The complaints of Pacific coast farmers that Japanese immigrants are filling up fertile valleys and menacing the white race in California, Oregon and Washington were delved into by a congressional committee sitting in Sacramento and San Francisco, Cal. Governors, congressmen, senators, farmers and experts gave testimony, which may result in international exchanges between the United States and Japan and possibly a modification of immigration laws. Left of right are, Congressmen Albert Johnson of Washington, chairman; John C. Klezka, of Wisconsin; J. Will Taylor of Kentucky; William N. Vaile of Colorado, and John E. Baker of California. Standing in the rear are George L. Harrington, stenographer and P. F. Snyder, clerk of the committee.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

Just because undertakers usually bury dead people the incident of an undertaker of this city recently rescuing a cat which was drowning in a canal has a particularly weird touch of humor. The undertaker mentioned was passing near a canal when he saw a cat struggling in the water and fast being washed beneath the surface. While a few others saw the feline without making any attempt to rescue it, the undertaker made a rush for a nearby bridge. Seizing a rope which was there at the time he let himself over the railing and down along one of the pliers. He was just down at this place in time to grab the drowning cat as it was about to be washed under the bridge. Spectators of the incident mentioned it as humorous because of the fact that undertakers are supposed to be more interested in the dead than the living. If this man did so much to rescue a cat, he may easily be imagined to what heroic limits he would go to save a human life even at the risk of injuring his own business.

Incidental to the closing of the jail in Thorndike street and the probability of its disposal by the county within a comparatively short time, comes reminiscences on the part of several lifelong residents of the city who have rich stores of historical facts relative to Lowell's earlier days. One gentleman tells me that the spot on which the jail stands was once the home of Hezekiah Thorndike, for whom the street was named. His farm took in much of the land in that immediate vicinity, including part of what now is the South common. The old Thorndike house was torn down when the jail was built. Hezekiah Thorndike married Abigail Chamberlain in 1779. He died in 1843 and she in '47. He was in his 85th year, while her age was 83. They both are buried in the old cemetery at Chelmsford Centre, near the Baptist church. It also is most interesting to know that Hezekiah Thorndike became a charter member of Peabody lodge, A. F. and A. M., in 1807, Lowell at that time being a part of the township of Chelmsford.

It was interesting to note the varying opinions and hopes of people who called this office during the yacht races to learn the doings of the two sloops. Some would receive whatever information was given them with a pleasant "Thank you" and let it go.

at that. Others, however, more prejudiced and enthusiastic, openly expressed their opinion of what was told them. One feminine voice hollered "Hurrah" right over the wire when she was told that the Resolute was leading in the fifth race. A minute later a burly male voice wanted to know how the Shamrock was coming out. When told that the American sloop was ahead, he said: "That won't do; I want to see old Tom Lipton take the cup out of here." But he remembered to say "Thank you," so his lack of sporting patriotism was forgiven. It went to show that many people on this side of the water so admired the Englishman's sporting blood that they wanted to see his yacht victorious.

The question which is uppermost in everybody's mind at the present time is what style footwear is going to be worn next fall and winter. I think the shoe manufacturers have answered this question very conclusively at the style show held in Mechanics building last week. Sixteen Lynn manufacturers combined at the show and put across an exhibit which was not only interesting but also exceedingly instructive. A background showing the different Lynn factories, together with a reproduction of the first shoe factory in Lynn was exceedingly effective, and in front of this is a runway on which models appear showing the different styles of boots and shoes made in Lynn. Directly in front of this runway were exhibited shoes on stands so as to bring out the full value in every way possible.

Shoe manufacturers in general have come to the direct conclusion that more boots are going to be worn this fall and winter than ever before. Especially those made up in black, tan and calfskin. That their judgment is exceedingly good is borne out by the fact that buying orders are being placed for these shoes in quantity and there is no question but that with the short skirts, which undoubtedly will be worn by women, that these high shoes will sell big. There are no freak designs in this exhibit, whatever shown has been made with the idea that good, sensible, every-day shoes, built on a last which can be worn with comfort, with military heel and general stylish appearance will appeal more to women buyers than any other kind of footwear.

retain the attractive lawn and shrubbery in front of the buildings. It is one of the few beauty spots adjoining an industrial plant in Lowell. There is a plot of ground adjoining the building of the New England Telephone & Telegraph company in Appleton street that has been made restful to the eye tired with the endless facade of brick and wooden buildings and the unrelieved monotony of paved or tarred streets. Near the centre of a green lawn are two flower beds, in the shape of a star and crescent. If I should drop into a poetical mood, I might say that the flowers were set like gems in a robe of emerald. The robe of emerald is there all right, for the grass is kept well irrigated and closely cropped, but the flowers are a bit straggly. Between the office of the Lowell Gaslight company and the J. C. Ayer laboratory is another attractive spot. The space is not large, but the most has been made of what there is of it. There is an area of green lawn, shrubs, a stone seat, and ivy climbing profusely over the wall of the Gaslight building. It is unfortunate that Lowell has not more green grass and shrubbery around its textile plants. Perhaps the reason is that these establishments were started in a day when the man of business did not think it profitable to mix sentiment and aesthetics with business. The old traditions still remain to a large extent in the mills, though the world has moved considerably since they were started. The surroundings of a railroad are ordinarily about as ugly as it is possible to imagine. The Boston & Albany road, carrying out plans evolved by Frederick Law Olmstead, has shown, however, that even the surroundings of a rail line can be made pleasing to the eye.

Annual Chautauqua Begins
Its Sessions—Large Audiences Expected

Work Progressing Slowly on
New St. Andrew's Church
—Other News

BillERICA's annual Chautauqua began its sessions this afternoon in a big tent, with seating accommodations for about 1200 persons, that has been erected on the lawn back of the town hall. The sessions are to be held every week day afternoon
and evening up to and including next Monday. Sunday morning the churches of the town are to join in a
union service in the tent.

The sessions have been well advertised by means of the BillERICA Chautauqua Courier, and other printed matter, and large audiences are expected, drawn from BillERICA and surrounding towns.

This is the fourth year that the town has had its Chautauqua. As in previous years the expenses are guaranteed by 50 of the townsmen, who each agree to sell nine season tickets at $2.50 each. In addition it is expected that considerable income will be obtained from the sale of single admission tickets that will cost this year 50 cents for afternoon and 75 cents for evening sessions. The cost of bringing the Chautauqua to
the town has increased this year to $1025. In addition to this sum, the committee in charge must provide for the company of other expenses
connected with the sessions.

The big tent and the entertainers
who are to take part in today's program arrived this morning from Goffstown, N. H. The next stop of the outfit will be at Danvers, Conn.

St. Andrew's Church

The work on St. Andrew's church
is slowly but surely nearing completion. It is hoped that it may be ready for use by the latter part of August or the first of September.
The progress of the work has been greatly hampered by strikes among workmen employed by contractors
engaged in the construction of the building or supplying materials.
lay due to the freight tie-up at the railroads.

Within the building workmen are engaged in laying the hardwood floor of the main auditorium. The decoration of the walls has been partly completed. It is expected that it may be possible to place the organ in the church this week. Outside a force of men have started work grading the grounds.

Many Perplexities

Some old BillERICans say that the town is having more than its share
of troubles this summer. They point
to the fact that only a short time ago
the placid old place was stirred from centre to circumference by an agitation to legalize Sunday baseball,
an agitation the echoes of which

still linger in the air and are likely,
it is said, to make themselves heard
with renewed vigor at the next town meeting.

Now comes the announcement that
the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway is to discontinue one of the main arteries of travel into and out of the town. The street railway au-
BillERICA Centre and Woburn with connections through Medford to Sullivan square in Boston has not paid
for some time, hence no more cars
are to be run over it beginning with a date in the near future.

Snuffing off the line does not trouble the people of North BillERICA
very much. They have never shown any fondness for visiting Woburn, and
for those who wish to travel to Boston by electric there is still the line
open via the Centre and Lexington.

The people of the Centre—or some of them—however, have been accustomed to journey down to the tannery
city to purchase material for their Sunday dinners. This they will not be able to do, of course, after the electric line is closed. Local merchants
hope that some of this trade will stay
at home, but the general opinion seems to be that a good deal of it will go to Lowell.

It is the people of Pinehurst that are hit hardest by the discontinuance
of the line. The people of this section of the town have almost grown tired
of discussing their grievance amongst themselves, but whenever a stranger
heaves into sight he is looked upon as a proper subject to listen to a tale
of woe.

In winter Pinehurst has a population of about 100. In summer this number is increased to nearly 2000. The BillERICA-Woburn electric in the past
have furnished the only transportation facilities for the connection of
the place with the rest of the world.
With their disappearance people of the section will have to stay at home, if they do not own autos or horses,
or else walk five miles to Woburn or
two miles to BillERICA Centre to connect with the trains of the Boston &
Maine railroad. Needless to say the Pinehurstites are in a frame of mind
over the loss of their transportation facilities. There has been much talk of a protest, but there seems to be a general feeling of discouragement over
the outcome if one is made.

Want to Register

Some of the women of BillERICA are planning to make a move on the camp
of the registrar of voters. Only three weeks remain in which the future citi-zenesses can get their names on the lists so that they can vote at the presidential election if Tennessee, or some other state shall ratify the Anthony amendment to the constitution
before the first Tuesday following the first Monday of next November. About 200 of the women are now registered
and entitled to vote.

Mrs. George A. Stowers, chairman
of the women's republican town committee, has the work of organizing her committee well in hand and it is expected that within a few days the names of her associates will be announced. As soon as the committee is complete it is probable that a sys-tematized canvass of the republican women of the town will be made with
the object of strengthening their al-ligiance to the G.O.P. and getting them to register if the books are opened to them.

Another grievance against the registrars is said to be that requests that
the women should be permitted to inspect the lists of male voters with
the names of the parties to which they have declared allegiance, have been turned down on the ground that such an inspection would be contrary to law.

The registrars are Albert H. Rich-
Mahoney and Albert S. Bull.

Quiet in the Political Camp

Politics in BillERICA are calling in such a calm as would lead a cup race
committee to hold the signal "no
race" before the yachts got underway
for the starting mark. The announcement by Dr. M. A. Buck, who has been
the town's representative in the general court for two years, that he is a candidate for the senate has not brought a single hat into the ring locally of candidates for his place. So completely dead is the interest in the subject in democratic ranks that leaders admit that it is likely that they will allow the election to go by default as they have done for two years past. The only aspirant for the position that Dr. Buck no longer covets that has shown his head thus far is Candidate Bennett of Burlington, a republican, who is understood to have had some experience in conducting the affairs of his home town, but is little known in BillERICA.

The New Pump

At the last special town meeting an appropriation was made for the purchase of a new pump that the water commissioners asserted was impera-
tively needed. According to Clerk
Frank L. Day of the commission it had been expected that bids for furnishing the machine would be ready for examination this week Tuesday.
When Tuesday arrived there were no
bids, therefore the time in which offers can be made was extended for one week. The specifications under which bids must be made call for a vertical triplex pump with a capacity of from 500 to 1000 gallons a minute. The specifications explicitly state that a centrifugal pump will not be accepted.
It is stated that it is doubtful if a pump can be delivered in time to place
it in service much before the beginning of next year.

The Community Market

Four weeks ago the local grange started out to put a few cents in the armor of H. C. of L. by setting up a community market in which the farmers in the vicinity could sell their products direct to the consumers. The market has proved a success both to buyers and sellers. The goods offered
have been fresh from the farms and gardens and not only have the prices
been fair, but every penny obtained from the sales has gone into the pockets of the producers, as no charge has been made by grange members for conducting the market. Cream, cheese,
eggs, broilers, fowl, many kinds of vegetables and berries, baskets and
home-made soap have been among the articles that have met with a ready
sale. No butter has shown up yet, and it is said that considerably more cream could be sold if it were offered. Honey is also on the list of articles for which inquiry has been made, but none has turned up so far.

Try the Bitter-Phosphate Health System—$300 Guarantee

NEW YORK—If you are feeling run-down, weak, nervous, tired in the morning, and generally ailing, these are the symptoms that should warn you to take care of your health.
Four persons in every ten are needing more phosphorus in their bodies.
When you see thin and fretful people, or those who are anemic, pale, frail, off dependent or lacking in energy, you may look for the need of certain elements that make for a strong constitution.

Some people, after relying upon preparations composed chiefly of salts, quinine, drastic drugs, iron, calcium, cod-liver oil, etc., wonder why they find no benefit. That is easily explained by the fact that such persons need the phosphoric element, which is a most potent essential to health, and contained in BITRO-PHOSPHATE, the famous health preparation, now obtainable everywhere.

The right thing for you to do is make a trial of BITRO-PHOSPHATE beginning at once. It is not a patent medicine; the formula is prescribed by many physicians for the ailments and weaknesses mentioned above.

With every box of BITRO-PIOS-PHATE are a few simple health rules and a $300 guarantee. Buy a box of BITRO-PIOSPHATE. It is sold and

SCHOOL BOARD

Fails to Elect Successor to Arthur K. Whitcomb

Owing to the absence of Julian B.
Keyes, the school committee failed to elect a successor to Arthur K. Whitcomb as master of the Greenhalge school, at its regular monthly meeting last evening. The matter will now go over to the August meeting.

The committee accepted Mr. Whitcomb's resignation, brought about by his age-limit law. Chairman Thomas B. Delaney spoke highly of Mr. Whitcomb's ability in matters pertaining to the public schools and said that the department was losing a most valued servant. Gardner W. Pearson, who attended the Varnum school while Mr.
Whitcomb was there, also testified to his high qualities as an educator. The resignation was accepted with a rising vote of thanks.

"I'll just slip over and ask Munchie Mouse to help me up in his dumb-cautiously over the soft moss.

But suddenly he heard voices, and dodging behind a blueberry plant, the fairyman waited to see what would happen.

"Isn't it a delightful day, Mrs. Ant," came a soft lady-like voice too near for our little fat friend to feel quite comfortable.

"Yes, indeed!" responded someone else—en-thus-ias-tically. "Isn't it thought! Just the kind of a day one feels like hopping." That was Miss Grasshopper.

Then another voice came through the shrubbery. "I was so afraid it would rain today. When it does, you know,
I just can't do a thing with my hair."
That was no other than Miss Fuzzy-Worm talking.

"Here's a lovely place!" exclaimed a fourth voice. "This blueberry grove is one of my favorite spots. I usually come here to chirp my evening song." Tingaling recognized Miss Cricket.

"My lands!" exclaimed he. "This is no place for me. It's the Woodland Society having a picnic. I'll be home in five minutes."

The high school was granted a certificate of the second grade.
Plans for the addition to the Boys' Vocational school were accepted and approved.

The resignation of Miss Barbara E.
Ham, a teacher in the Bartlett school, was accepted, to take place Sept. 1 and a vote of thanks for conscientious service extended.

Owing to the absence of Mr. Keyes, several requests for increases in salary were laid on the table without reading.

The committee voted to accept the invitation of the high school building commission to attend the exercises surrounding the laying of the cornerstone of the new high school Thursday afternoon.

WAS THROWN FROM HIS MOTORCYCLE

Frans Lundgren, 21, of Medford street, Pinehurst, a part of BillERICA, was thrown from his motorcycle in Cambridge road, Winchester, yesterday afternoon while attempting to avoid a collision with an automobile.
He was taken to the Winchester hospital where it was found that he had three broken ribs and was suffering from numerous cuts and bruises. When he recovered consciousness at the hospital he stated that the accident was due to his motorcycle having struck a spot where there was soft sand as he attempted to steer it out of the path of the automobile. Witnesses of the accident say that the occupants of the auto proceeded on their journey without stopping to ascertain what had happened to the motorcyclist.

AN OVERBURDENED WIFE

If the work that women do and the pains they suffer could be measured in figures, what a terrible array they would present! Through girlhood, wifehood and motherhood woman toils on, often suffering with backache, pains in side, headaches and nervousness which are tell-tale symptoms of organic derangements which Lydia E.

correct. Women who suffer should not give up hope until they have given it a trial.—Adv.

Resolute Wins Final Yacht Race and America's Cup Remains at Home

AMERICA KEEPS CUP

Thirteen was just like any other number for the Resolute. Under the management of Robert W. Emmons and Skipper Charles Francis Adams at the wheel the America's cup is still ours. After a series of 13 challenges covering 69 years of international yacht racing, the Resolute kept up America's winning streak.

NEW YORK, July 28.—The America's cup remains at home.

Sir Thomas Lipton's fourth attempt to lift it ended in failure yesterday, when his challenger, the fourth Shamrock, was defeated decisively by the Resolute, over a 10-mile windward and return course, in the fifth and deciding race of the present series, the 13th in which the cup has been defended. At the end of 21 years of effort to take back to England this emblem of sailing supremacy, won by the schooner yacht America in 1851, the aged challenger yesterday saw his hopes of victory vanish at the very moment that opportunity seemed to place the cherished trophy within his grasp.

During the first two hours of yesterday's race Sir Thomas stood on the tip of his nose, for his boat showed a burst of speed that, if sustained, might have given her the race and the series. It was a tense period of excitement, and it seemed a turning point in the history of the cup.

Lipton's Hopes Blasted
Then swiftly came disillusion. After a hard two hours' contest between the two yachts for the weather gauge, Resolute, by skillful sailing and superior speed, worked out to a lead that spelled doom for the ambition of the Irish knight. Thereafter the American boat was never headed, and when, at twilight, she led the Shamrock home, the defeat of Lipton's fourth challenger was more decisive than that suffered by any race in which both boats finished.

One had to go back in memory 17 years for a scene like that of Sandy Hook at the end of yesterday's race. Then the Reliance had come home a victor, with Shamrock III lost in the fog and unable to find the line. At that time Sir Thomas had looked on ruefully enough as the American boat came home, but he had been spared a view of the discomfiture of his challenger.

Last night such was not the case, for the weather was clear, and he

CRESCENT A. A.—BOXING
BILLY MURPHY OF N. Y. vs. WILLIE FITZSIMMONS of Chelsea, and Three Other Bouts
SPALDING PARK, SATURDAY AFTERNOON

BILLY MURPHY OF N. Y. U. S. OLYMPIC TEAM HAS FINE RECORD TRAINS ON WAY OVER

As Billy Murphy of Staten Island, N. Y., who is matched to meet Billy Fitzsimmons of Chelsea, in the main event of 13 rounds at Spalding park Saturday afternoon, is a new comer in this vicinity, a little review of his activities will convince the fans that he is the best looking prospect developed in that vicinity since the days of Terry McGovern.

Murphy is under the management of Eddie Harvey, manager of Jimmy Duffy and several other high class performers. Harvey has been a very successful handler of ring men, and it is said that he has won 100 of his 101 bouts of class performers.

Murphy has newspaper decisions over Benny Valger, Jack Sharkey, Billy Affick, whom Tom Wilkerson brought to this country as a British champion, Jo Tipton, Sammy Waltz, Bobby Michaels, Charley Hayes, Joe Leonard, Willie Brown and many others. He has been boxing four years and has not had a decision registered against him in 51 bouts.

He was matched to meet Johnny Kilgore at Waterbury, Conn., on June 17, 1919, but later trouble in that city put a blink on boxing. George Mulligan, who was promoting the match, still has hopes of staging it at a later date.

Joe Lynch turned down three offers to meet Murphy in decision bouts, the offers coming from Waterbury, Hartford and Meriden, Conn.

DEMPSEY AND MISKE TO FIGHT LABOR DAY

CHICAGO, July 28.—Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion of the world, was matched yesterday in a meeting with Billy Miske of St. Paul in a 10-round heavyweight championship contest at Benton Harbor, Mich., Labor day.

The champion, according to an announcement by Promoter Fitzsimmons, has been guaranteed $50,000, with the privilege of accepting a percentage of the receipts, while Miske has been guaranteed $25,000.

Miske has promised to establish training quarters in Benton Harbor four weeks before the contest and also agrees to call off two scheduled matches.

The contest will be staged in the open-air arena in which Benny Leonard defeated his lightweight champion, Pionship against Charlie White July 5. Miske is regarded by the promoters as a logical opponent for Dempsey, as he fought him twice before. Dempsey defeated Jess Willard for the heavyweight title. They met in a 10-round engagement in St. Paul and in a six-round contest in Philadelphia. Miske claiming to have had the better of their Philadelphia meeting.

The St. Paul heavyweight is much heavier than when he fought Dempsey the first time, tipping the scales in the neighborhood of 192 pounds.

The fight will be to a decision, providing Dempsey agrees, Promoter Fitzsimmons announced last night.

TO INVESTIGATE WILLS-FULTON BOUT

TRENTON, N. J., July 28.—Governor Edwards yesterday ordered a sweeping investigation into the management of the Fulton-Wills boxing bout in Newark Monday night, when, it is alleged, hundreds who had paid as high as $15 and $20 for admission tickets were unable to get into the arena because of the inadequate system of handling the crowd.

The matter was brought to the attention of the governor by State Senator Simpson of Hudson county, who said that the situation "closely approached a scandal."

Not only many buyers of admission tickets find it impossible to get into the arena, Governor Edwards said he had been informed, but holders of press and inspectors' passes were also turned down.

The show was conducted by the International Sporting club of New York, which had found it impossible to stage a bout in New York because of the law.

The Call'em

We never are able to pick up a paper nowadays and read of a new swimming record having been placed on the books by Norman Ross, holder of any number of world marks over various distances, without letting our thoughts turn back a couple of years when Ross was a lieutenant in the United States air service at one of the California fields. Ever since he was a kid with a pair of tight tucked away from his parents, he has been a swimmer, but it is only within the last few years that his water work has won him national and even international fame.

Could See the Reason

I do not think it will be a breach of army discipline at this late date to uncover a few personal intimacies about Norman Ross during his days of service. He liked army life as well as a cat likes water and aside from the actual work of flying he could see but little more than the plugging of his service at one of the California fields. Ever since he was a kid with a pair of tight tucked away from his parents, he has been a swimmer, but it is only within the last few years that his water work has won him national and even international fame.

The C.O. Never Knew

Moreover, there was only one possible way of testing the truth (and by boat) and as the duck guards were more or less strict Norman's chances of slipping in and out were decidedly slim. All the more wonderful was the fact that when one evening he happened on the beach sands of Coronado, he had covered the mile and a half by water, but traveled in it less than on it. As far as I know he never was caught and did not stunt several times. And let me say in passing it was no easy swim—through a plunging surf that rolled like a Pacific joined the bay in the city.

Handicapping the Yankees

Looks as if the Red Sox have only one nitcher, Sam "Horsewhips" Jones, capable of going the distance regularly in a winning effort. His work on Monday when he subdued the slugging Yankees with three strikes, was a fine piece of twisting, even though he did let his bat to Ruth by passing the mauler four times to first.

Where Turnstiles Click Merely

A baseball plant capable of seating 100,000 people is possible for New York. The city is a wonder in the sense of the word and some fair bits of its baseball frenzy at the present time with Ruth in the Yankees lineup may be obtained from last Sunday's race when 40,000 got in and 40,000 more were turned away. Visiting teams have New York this season with checks that are fortunes in themselves.

ON BOARD THE U.S.S. PRINCESS MATOIKA, July 27 (By Wire) to the Associated Press).—Perfect sailing weather today permitted the members of the American Olympic team to set down in their 11-day training routine. A 70-yard cork sprint track has been laid on the upper deck and boxing, wrestling, boxing, fencing, and running exercises twice daily. The Frederick, which has aboard 181 athletes and coaches of the navy Olympic party, is 145 miles ahead of the Princess Matoika, carrying the other Olympic teams.

Medals for Triumphanters

ANTWERP, July 27.—American triathletes today received their Olympic medals. At the ceremony incident to the presentation there was no hint of protest against the Americans on the grounds of professionalism, which it was stated in Etienne Beige yesterday might be made.

Captain Jay Clarke of the American team, questioned on the subject, said: "We left some of our best American shooters at home, just to guard against any hint of professionalism."

The American deer shooters went to the Beverloo camp tonight to join the rifle team, which begins its match tomorrow. Lieut. James Jackson of the Marine Corps today took the place of Commander Osburn on the deer shooting team. Otherwise, the lineup remains the same.

Twilight Baseball TEAM ORGANIZED

The Lowell Twilight Baseball league, an organization comprising the strongest teams of the city, was born last evening at a meeting of representatives of the Knights of Columbus, the Gas Light West Ends, Pitts' South Ends and the Gillespies.

Next Monday the Gillespies will meet the West Ends, on Wednesday the Gillespies and South Ends will cross bats and on Friday the Knights of Columbus and South Ends will meet. The series will continue for the rest of the season with the ultimate purpose of determining the city's champions.

It was agreed at last evening's meeting that the teams should be limited to the following players:

Cox Manager Won Wife
Story-Book Fashion

MARIETTA, O., July 23.—George White, new democratic national committee chairman, won his wife in the good old-fashioned story book way. Her father, a wealthy man, told young White to earn $100,000 and then come back for the bride and $100,000 more. White followed directions, went to the Klondike and came back to "live happily ever afterwards."

MASS. COTTON MILLS
ON HONOR ROLL

One of the local cotton mills has won a place on the "honor roll" of the savings division, first federal reserve district, just issued, as a result of the fine showing made by the war savings societies of that plant. The roll comprises only 50 companies out of more than 1200 war savings societies in all New England, and covers the purchases of war savings stamps and thrift stamps for the past three months. The Lowell company thus far honored is the Massachusetts cotton mills, whose war savings societies have 63 members, and whose purchases of thrift and war savings stamps for this period amounted to $524.50.

Resolute Wins Final Race

Continued

Sloop in the fluky winds was declared to be nearly faultless. The Resolute's crew of 22 Norwegians, seven Swedes and one Dane—all American citizens—also came in for unstinted praise. Capt. Chris. Christensen, the sailing master, won the last yacht race against the Shamrock III in 1903.

Sir Thomas Lipton who hid his bitter disappointment behind his cordial congratulations to the Resolute and her crew, saying that the better boat won, will soon leave for a visit to Canada. He will issue another challenge in 1925, and will name the challenger Shamrock V, he said.

The big green sloop probably will be towed up the Hudson within a few

Are you sure of your brakes?

Unreliable brakes are a constant menace to your safety

THE traffic officer signals you to stop and it takes six or eight feet more than you thought necessary.

Perhaps in this case it means nothing more than a little embarrassment.

Suppose, however, it was an emergency that demanded a sudden stop.

Those few feet might mean the difference between safety and a serious accident.

And yet to have your brakes always efficient is as easy as it is necessary.

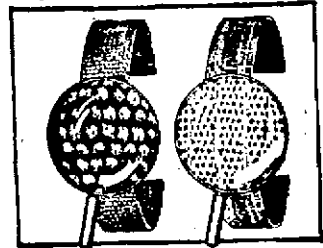

Ask your garage man to inspect them regularly.

If they are O.K. he will tell you so and the knowledge will create a feeling of security you could not otherwise hope for.

If they need relining have it done but do not buy just "brake lining"—your safety is too important for that. Experts specify a lining only after they know what it will do—after exhaustive tests—and all leading car and axle builders specify Thermoid Brake Lining.

The national brake inspection movement.

Your attention is called to this movement which has increased and will continue to increase the safety of the road only as all motorists realize their duty to lend it their support and to have their brakes inspected before the touring season opens.

Ordinary Woven Lining

Notice the loosely woven texture.

Wears down quickly and unevenly.

Looses its gripping power as it wears.

Thermoid Hydraulic Compressed Brake Lining

Notice the compact texture. Wears down slowly. Gives uniform gripping surface until worn water thin.

Specify Thermoid—it offers you more material—greater service.

1. There is over 40% more material and 60% more labor in the manufacture of Thermoid Brake Lining than in any woven brake lining.

2. Thermoid Brake Lining is Grapnelized, an exclusive process which creates resistance to moisture, oil and gasoline.

3. Every square inch of Thermoid is hydraulic compressed at a pressure of 1000 pounds.

Because of this, Thermoid is uniform all the way through. It cannot compress in service, causing constant adjustment of the bands.

custody of the New York Yacht club.

Sir Thomas Lipton has failed in his fourth attempt to realize a cherished ambition, after trying since 1899 with four different Shamrocks, to return the precious galleon to the Royal Ulster Yacht Club of England.

When America won the now historic cup in 1851 the trophy was not an international one. Six years after this first race with Great Britain, the cup was brought to the United States by the New York Yacht club and placed in trust as an international challenger prize. Here it has remained and yesterday's victory by Resolute insures its retention by America for at least another year.

In only one instance in the history of the cup races until the 1920 series had a challenger won a single race. This was on Oct. 19, 1871, when the English schooner Livonia defeated the New York Yacht club's defender, Columbia, which suffered a broken steering gear.

The first race for the cup as a world trophy was on Aug. 8, 1870, in lower New York bay, when the challenging boat, Cambria, had to compete against the entire fleet of the New York Yacht club. Cambria finished 10th in the event, which was won by Magic of the American fleet. This is the only instance in which a challenger has had to race more than a single defender.

Of the 13 contestants for the cup, Sir Thomas Lipton has participated in the last four. Sir Thomas started his quest for the trophy in 1899 with Shamrock I. The defender, Columbia, took three straight races, but undaunted, the Irish baron came back two years later with Shamrock II. and again Columbia took three successive events. In 1903, he returned with Shamrock III, which was defeated in three straight races by Reliance, largest of all cup defenders.

Then came Sir Thomas' challenge with a 75-footer to race in 1914 and Shamrock IV, was on her way to America when the world war started.

From the opening of hostilities until the signing of the armistice, she was in drydock in Brooklyn. Then she was taken to a shipyard at City Island to be put into commission and Sir

Thomas sent to this country his 23-metre Shamrock to act as a "trial horse" for the challenger. Only twice prior to the 1920 series had a challenger crossed the finish line ahead of the defender. On Sept. 10, 1895, Valtyre III, finished one minute and 18 seconds ahead of the American boat, but withdrew from the race and on Oct. 4, 1901, Shamrock II, finished 2 seconds ahead of Columbia, but lost because of a 42-second allowance.

In the quest for the cup the Royal Ulster Yacht club was preceded in the early years of the contests by the Royal Yacht squadron of England.

Years of preparation and millions of dollars were expended to produce the marine classic ended yesterday. The event was financed by a syndicate expenditure, of course, being for the reconstruction of the defender Resolute. The entire expense of the challenging yacht was defrayed by Sir Thomas, who had the most daring and original naval architect of all Britain design and build for him a racing craft to lift the cup.

You Can't Brush Or Wash Out Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning, most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.—Adv.

AYS GERMANY SHOULD BE REPRESENTED

BERLIN, July 27.—That Germany could be represented in the proposed conference between allied and soviet representatives at London, was the opinion expressed to the reichstag today by Dr. Walter Simons, German foreign secretary.

"I am now curious to see," the secretary declared, "whether in the negotiations soon to begin on the eastern question between the entente and soviet Russia, the entente again will make the same mistake as at Versailles, when it undertook to solve here the eastern European question, namely, that of proceeding without Germany. If that should happen, then peace will become a house of cards, much more unstable than the peace of Versailles ever can become."

EX-SENATOR CRANE OVERCOME BY SUN

NORTHAMPTON, July 28.—Ex-United States Senator W. Murray Crane suffered a collapse while attending the ceremonies in connection with the nomination of Gov. Coolidge of his nomination for the vice presidency here yesterday. The collapse was said to be induced by the heat, but was not serious enough to be called a sunstroke, according to physicians. They said the ex-senator's condition was not considered serious.

The ex-senator, after luncheon at the home of Gov. Coolidge, had gone outside at the request of photographers to pose for a picture and had stood for several minutes exposed to the sun when he was seen to sag. Congressman Allen T. Treadway stepped to his side, and Mr. Crane collapsed in his arms. He was removed to the home of a neighbor of Gov. Coolidge and given medical attention, had a short nap and then started back toampton by automobile.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

By Theatres' Own Press Agents

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE
Final performance of "Olive Tell in 'Love Without Question'." The star cast, which will be presented at the Merrimack Square theatre, this evening, tomorrow afternoon, will be an entire change of program.

The features for Thursday, Friday and Saturday will be "Passersby," a heart-breaking production, starring Herbert Rawlinson and "Girl of the Sea," an unusual and beautiful submarine picture.

If J. S. Blackton has ever produced a better picture than "Passersby," it has slipped our memory. "Passersby" presents Herbert Rawlinson in a leading role, but it is more than a one-star picture, for every member of the cast measures up perfectly to the requirements, put upon him by the director. In fact, we have seen better character portrayals than those of William J. Ferguson, Dick Lee and Tom Lewis. The production is the acme of artistry.

C. Hadden Chambers, the playwright with nothing but successes to his credit, wrote "Passersby," which enjoyed great success on the English and American stages. It's a story of real people of varied types and unselfishness of kindly deeds, of everlasting love and of noble sacrifices.

Mr. Blackton's direction shows a mastery of his subject. The thought behind "Passersby" has been interpreted with fidelity; the author's mood and quality; the humanity of it is heart-breaking; the humor is fresh and bubbling; the romance is real and convincing; the story is a gem, thank heavens, far in the background.

"Girl of the Sea" is an exclusive picture of the sea with a most melodramatic and heart interest. Other features of the program for the week-end will include a comedy, the International News and a Burton Holmes travel picture.

THE STRAND
Standing at the very apex of an extraordinarily successful theatrical career is William Farnum, who will be seen at the Strand, the latter half of the week, beginning tomorrow afternoon in "The Orphan." This is a William Farnum production, and it is more than a one-star picture, for every member of the cast measures up perfectly to the requirements, put upon him by the director. In fact, we have seen better character portrayals than those of William J. Ferguson, Dick Lee and Tom Lewis. The production is the acme of artistry.

Y. D. VETERAN SHOOTS WIFE, KILLS HIMSELF

WESTLEY, R. I., July 28.—William Brown, a Y. D. veteran, shot and seriously wounded his wife and then killed himself at his home on Spring street, last night. Mrs. Brown was taken to a hospital in New London, Conn., where physicians said they did not expect her to recover.

Brown, who was a granite cutter, was married two months ago to Gladys Dunbar of Quincy, Mass. His sister told the police that she went to his home yesterday morning, and found him in a stupor. Late yesterday, he visited his parents' home and, according to his mother, showed her a revolver and said:

"I am going to shoot Gladys because she has been unfaithful."

He said he would show her how the weapon worked and fired a shot through a picture. She went out to the garden to call her husband and Brown fired three more shots through the kitchen door. When his father came in, Brown repeated his threat and then left the house. His parents notified the police, but by the time officers reached the house, he had done the shooting.

The police said they found several half empty bottles of whiskey in the house. The medical examiner pronounced his death due to suicide caused by acute alcoholic mania.

Brown enlisted at Providence in Battery C, 103d Field Artillery, of the 26th Division, and served in France for 15 months.

SLIGHT ATTACK OF WANDERLUST

Two Lowell boys were picked up by the Winchester police yesterday and held for safe-keeping. They were Adrian Lalonde, 15, of 310 Moody st. and Geo. Fournier, 17, whose home is at the corner of Prince and Moody sts. The parents of both boys were notified and they promised to take charge of them in Winchester.

Thomas and John Greenhalge of 49 Claire street, 16 and 14 years old respectively, were picked up last night in Somerville and detained for information from the local police. Their parents were notified and they will go to Somerville to get them.

James Mullaney, a Fall River boy was picked up in this city yesterday and kept at the station for investigation. The Fall River police were notified last night and state that a police inspector would be sent here.

(Special to The Sun)

STATE HOUSE, Boston, July 28.—The wage arbitration proceedings being held on the demands of the employees of the Eastern Massachusetts will probably be concluded by tomorrow.

The company expects to finish the presentation of its case Thursday in time to permit the delivery of final arguments by both sides. The employees' case is already in.

At yesterday's session, Caleb S. Jackson, comptroller of the road, went into detail on the various phases of the company's past and present financial condition. At the conclusion of his testimony, Chairman Hugh Ogden, the representative of the public on the arbitration board, asked the witness if it is true that the road has never earned the cost of service, as defined by the legislature, since it passed into the management of the trustees. Mr. Jackson answered in the affirmative, adding that the deficit incurred since that time has been steadily mounting until it has reached at the present time a sum in the neighborhood of $2,600,000. The cost of service as allowed by the legislature includes an allowance for dividends at the rate of six per cent.

Chairman Ogden asked the witness also if any increase in pay which might be granted to the men would augment the deficit by an equal amount and Mr. Jackson answered this question, too, in the affirmative.

Philip Carlton, counsel for the road, read into the record extracts from a decision of the old public service commission, rendered in December, 1918, on a petition of the road for an increase in fare, to the extent which is anything like the percentage of the fare increases. In this respect the board was also quoted as saying "It is quite clear that increases in fare impose a burden upon the public which considerably exceeds the benefit which they bring to the companies." Howard P. Fritch, assistant general manager, testified that 23 per cent of the carmen employed by the road own their own homes.

Attorney Carlton offered in evidence a statement as to the maximum wages being paid at the present time on the principal roads in Massachusetts. These are as follows: Attleboro Branch 17 cents; Boston Elevated, 10; Boston & Worcester, 52; Brockton & Plymouth, 50; Concord, Maynard & Hudson, 50; Connecticut Valley, 50; Fitchburg & Leominster, 57; Holyoke, 55; Interstate Consolidated, 57; Massachusetts Northeastern, 50; Middlesex & Boston, 55; Milford, Attleboro and Woonsocket, 57; Milford and Uxbridge, 52; Springfield, 57; Union, 60; and Worcester Consolidated 57.

Recommendations by Superintendent Contained in Annual Report for 1919

The acquisition of a park and playground in West Centralville, to accommodate the densely populated district in that part of the city, the laying out of a playground in the Highlands, the taking over of the land between Fort Hill park and the plant of the American Hide and Leather Co. in Perry street, and the seizure of land in Riverside street, from Pawtucket square to Colonial avenue for the embellishment of the bank of the Merrimack river, are some of the more important recommendations made by Supt. John W. Kernan to the park commission, in the annual report of the department for 1919, made public today.

Supt. Kernan points out that there are an average of 1300 families to one-half a square mile in West Centralville, with an average of five children in each family. The necessity of establishing a breathing spot in that section is readily apparent, he says.

The great building boom in the Highlands in the past few years bringing about a rapid disappearance of vacant lots where children were wont to play in the past he considers ample justification for a playground in that section.

The land mentioned in Belvidere is now held by the United States government and if taken over for a playground would meet the needs of Belvidere children and prevent them from encroaching on the laws of Fort Hill park.

In their report, the park commissioners point out that several important improvements were made possible during the year by the co-operation of the municipal council. The most notable, they report, was the establishment of the new municipal bath house on the Merrimack. Funds were also provided during the year for a new comfort station on the South common and this is rapidly nearing completion.

The playground work of the department, the commissioners say, has become of greater importance with each passing season. The board feels that the next step in connection with this phase of recreational activities should be found in the opening of a larger number of playgrounds, especially those for small children in the more congested districts of the city. It also believes that arrangements should be made with the school department in order that the young people who take advantage of the playgrounds may be offered opportunities for work in manual training and domestic arts during part of the time.

The commissioners also report that the supervision of children's gardens has been carried on through the summer under the direction of the board by Miss Alice T. Lee and William W. Dennett whose reports are appended to the general report of the department. In conclusion, the board of commissioners have the following to say:

"Many important projects for the better development of the city's park and recreational opportunities have been brought to the attention of the board during the year. It seems a pity that it is not possible under the present condition of city finances for more of these projects to be taken up immediately. The board is bearing them all in mind and is doing all that seems possible in the case of each."

"We have again to express to Supt. John W. Kernan and the staff working under his direction our cordial thanks for the efficient and courteous service which has been rendered throughout the year."

The 1919 report includes a number of excellent photographs showing various activities of the department. Among them are photos of the South common wading pool, a scene in front of city hall on Armistice day, the new bath house and the Cardinal O'Connell bust and fountain.

DANCE HALL

Stage Set for Hearing Before License Board Last Evening

In the police court room last night, the stage was set for a lively hearing before the license board on the question of licensing a dance hall on the Pawtucket boulevard. Long before the time set for the hearing, the court room was crowded with several hundred men and women.

In addition to the large assembly inside, nearly a hundred others stood in groups outside the Market street building, discussing the issue involved so that it was difficult to tell "who was for which or which for what." A feeling of earnestness pervaded the gathering, and yet it was difficult to judge what proportion of those present favored the petition and what opposed. There were present large property owners, merchants, clergymen, doctors and lawyers, in addition to a thoroughly representative body of the citizens of Pawtucketville, in which section the dance hall is being constructed.

There would have been a very exciting time had the supporters and opponents been given a chance to speak; but previous to the meeting, the lawyers engaged on both sides got together and agreed that before the hearing is held, it would be well to settle the question of the board's jurisdiction, claiming that the legal authority to grant a license such as petitioned for is vested in the municipal council and not in the license commission.

That the general statute passed by the state legislature in 1905, in reference to the granting of licenses for public amusements and theatricals had done away with all pre-existing laws and bearing upon the issue; and consequently, that the power to grant or revoke licenses had been taken away from the license board and vested in the city council, was the particular point raised. The counsel for the petitioners also brought up the point that, even if the license commission did have jurisdiction in the case, it could not legally take any action until the building is fully completed.

In accepting the views of the lawyers, Chairman Hanson, definitely stated that until the city solicitor decides the question of jurisdiction, it will remain uncertain whether the postponed hearing will be held under the auspices of the license commission or the city council. At 8:15 o'clock, Chairman Hanson called to order and declared the hearing open.

Lawyer D. J. Donahue, on behalf of the petitioners, in a brief address raised the question of jurisdiction in which he was assisted by Lawyer D. J. Murphy. Lawyers Francis W. Qua and Francis M. Qua also acquiesced in the presentation of the legal aspect of the case and it was unanimously accepted by the commission. On motion of Commissioner McGrath it was voted to postpone the hearing pending the decision of the legal question.

Rev. Mr. Lyon of the Pawtucket church, stated that he felt the hearing should be held regardless of the point raised; but the commissioner declared the meeting adjourned.

The following act approved by the state legislature on April 14, 1906, gave the power of granting and revoking such licenses as petitioned for, to the police board:

An Act to Amend the Charter of the City of Lowell

"Section 1—All the powers vested by existing laws in the mayor and aldermen or board of aldermen of the city of Lowell in relation to licensing, regulating and restraining theatrical exhibitions, public shows and public amusements, billiard tables, howling alleys, quilloneers, hawkers and peddlers, carriages, wagons and other vehicles, intelligence offices, itinerant musicians, pawnbrokers, dealers in second-hand articles and junk collectors and dealers and generally all the powers and authority of said mayor and aldermen and said board of aldermen in relation to the granting and revocation of licenses for engaging in any and all of the above mentioned trades and occupations, shall hereafter vest in and be exercised by the board of police of said city of Lowell."

"Section 2—All licenses granted in pursuance of section 1 of this act by
